Loyalist Planes Bomb Towns Captured by Insurgents

RENEW FIGHTING

General Miaja in Supreme Command in Southern Zone

Hendaye, France, at the Spanish Frontier.—(AP)—General Franco's insurgents, their red and gold banners planted in the sands of the Mediterranean shore, pushed relentlessly northward along the coast today.

They began closing in on the delta town of San Carlos de la Rapa. Their strategy was to force a crossing of the Ebro river and take Tortosa from the east, since their columns have been blocked for days in the approach from the west.

With government Spain split in two, fighting was resumed. Desperate bands of government militia sought to block the path of the insurgents.

Bomb Towns
Loyalist aviation bombed towns freshly fallen to the insurgents. Reports reaching the border early today said General Miguel Aranda's mixed Italian and Spanish troops had driven to within less than a mile of San Carlos de la Rapa.

The strip of seacoast now in the insurgents' hands was slightly more than 25 miles.

The middle insurgent line was unable to match the progress of the coastal drive. Repeated counter-attacks failed to dislodge government troops from positions near Balaguer, 75 miles west northward of Barcelona.

The insurgents stormed heights dominating Balaguer on the north several times in the last 24 hours. Infantry and tanks swept up the hillsides after preparatory artillery attacks but each time were forced back.

Street fighting continued for the third successive day in Vallogona, three miles south of Balaguer. The insurgents opened the locks of the canal south of Vallogona and flooded lowlands to block government troop movements.

The palm-lined streets of Vinaroz, first coastal city to fall to the insurgents yesterday, had not yet escaped the trials of war. For shortly after its capture, the picturesque port was visited by a fleet of 50 government airplanes which blasted new insurgent positions with bombs.

Capture Leaders
Insurgent dispatches to Iran said the capture of Vinaroz was so swift that the local government leaders attempting to flee in fishing smacks were caught in the harbor and imprisoned.

The government recognized the insurgents' success in cutting government Spain in two by declaring martial law in central Spain and making General Jose Miaja, the "Savior of Madrid" in the early phases of the civil war, the military governor of the area separated from Catalonia.

Insurgent dispatches described the northward march of Moroccan and Navarrese troops today as more of a triumphal parade than the advance of an army. Only scattered bands of militia offered resistance.

With the blue Mediterranean on their right and a bright sun overhead, the troops linked arms, singing patriotic hymns and native folk songs as they marched.

MIAJA IN COMMAND
Madrid.—(AP)—General Jose Miaja became the supreme head of military and civilian affairs today in the southern fourth-fifths of government Spain, cut off from Catalonia by the insurgents' break through to the sea at Vinaroz.

The bald, bespectacled "savior of Madrid," most famous of the few army officers who have remained loyal to the government, was vested with the highest powers several days ago by Premier Juan Negrin, government minister of national defense. The appointment was confirmed by radio last night.

General Miaja's first act was to declare the government would continue its fight, despite the Vinaroz Turn to page 2 col. 3

Chinese Gains Create Crisis In Jap Cabinet

Army and Navy Chieftains Want Stern Measures To End War

PREMIER MAY QUIT

Wild Rumors Circulating In Tokio as Result Of Censorship

Tokio.—(AP)—Faced by the insistence of army and navy leaders for sweeping measures to push a quick conclusion to the conflict in China, Premier Prince Fumimaro Koyonoe today was reported threatening to resign.

The cabinet was said to be split on the issue of support of the premier, providing the first real government crisis since the undeclared war in China started more than nine months ago.

As a result of a strict censorship on news from China, where Japanese army spokesmen have refused to confirm or deny reports of great losses in fighting at Taiherchwang, the public was in the dark on developments, and wild rumors circulated.

Lead Faction
The minister of war, General Gen Sugiyama, Navy Minister Admiral Mitsumasa Yonai and Home Minister Admiral Nobumasa Suetsugu were leading the faction demanding application of the national mobilization law and the sending of heavy reinforcements to China, it was widely reported.

Finance Minister Okinobu Kaya, Minister of Education Joichi Kato and Minister of Justice Suehiko Shiore were said to be in the opposite camp, backing the premier in his refusal to accede to the demands.

The minister of justice made a rapid visit to Koyonoe at his villa and after half an hour's conference returned to Tokio with the statement that Koyonoe did not intend to resign.

Bitterly Opposed
The foreign minister, Koki Hirota, was the only member of the cabinet who has not visited the premier's villa, where Koyonoe was said to be ill.

The premier's position was made difficult by the war, navy and home ministers' demands because he had promised the national mobilization bill would not be applied during the Chinese conflict.

The measure, bitterly opposed in parliament, gives the government unlimited power to draft the nation's man power and economic strength in an emergency.

Shanghai—(AP)—A Chinese army vigorously assaulted Yihshien in Shantung province today with artillery, bombing planes and infantry, determined to repeat the great victory it tasted at Taiherchwang, 20 miles farther south.

Now field guns hammered at the walls after cracking Japanese positions on the east, southeast and northeast, and planes dropped bombs.

Chinese infantry systematically attacked Japanese machine-gun nests dotting the hills and countryside surrounding the town.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's commanders declared fall of the city was certain, as all its supply lines were cut.

Welsh Must Face Court in Illinois, Governor Decides

Madison.—(AP)—Governor LaFollette signed extradition papers today for removal of Jerome Welsh from Racine to Waukegan, Ill., to face charges of murder and conspiracy to commit a felony.

The papers were to be turned over to officials of Lake county, Illinois, who accused Welsh of directing the robbery and slaying of William Hancock, wealthy farmer near Antioch, Ill., in 1932.

Attorneys for Welsh, who appeared at an extradition hearing before Deputy Attorney General Leo Vaudreuil here several weeks ago, indicated at the time they would seek a writ of habeas corpus if removal papers were signed.

The hearing was the second that had been conducted before Vaudreuil. At the first hearing the deputy attorney general expressed doubt whether Welsh could be ordered removed since it had been shown by his counsel he was not in Illinois at the time of the crime.

Lake county officials later were given opportunity to present new evidence.

Commission Acts To Cut Tape for 'Little Business'

Takes Three Important Steps to Provide Capital More Easily

Washington.—(AP)—"Little business" wanting more capital so it can be bigger got a boost today from the securities commission.

In response to President Roosevelt's suggestion that SEC red tape be cut in order to help small business raise capital more easily, the commission decided:

(1) To establish a unit in the registration division to aid prospective registrants.

(2) To reduce the amount of financial information required in registration statements for small issues of established enterprises.

(3) To broaden the exemption for issues of less than $100,000. The commission has been making a study of rules under the securities act of 1933 to determine whether it can make the issuance of securities cheaper and simpler.

The new registration unit "will tend to reduce the legal expenses and save the time of registrants," the commission said.

The "small established enterprise" was defined as "an enterprise which has total assets of not more than $5,000,000 which has been in operation for at least five years for at least one of which a net profit can be shown."

Under the broadened exemption for security issues of $100,000 or less, registration will become unnecessary for the filing of a notification of intention to issue and by qualifying the issue under the blue sky laws of states where it is to be offered for sale.

Duncan Faces Trial in May for Manslaughter

Milwaukee.—(AP)—Thomas M. Duncan, governor LaFollette's executive secretary, today was ordered to trial on first degree manslaughter charges early in May.

Municipal Judge Max W. Nohl tentatively set the date for May 2, 9 or 16.

The date is indefinite due to the fact an affidavit of prejudice was filed against Judge Nohl today and it could not be determined immediately when another judge would be available.

During a discussion of a trial date, Joseph Brazy, of defense counsel, pointed out that Duncan was in the hospital at Madison for several weeks after the accident and asserted his lawyers had not had sufficient time to confer with him for preparation of the defense.

Postpone Opening of Liquorless Night Club

Milwaukee.—(AP)—"Wet paint" signs still were needed today to the new "dry" night spot, the Club Sahara, and Manager Bernard A. Glisch had decided to postpone formal opening of the venture for a week.

Glisch said that the liquorless night club definitely would open at 10 a. m. April 23, and that the ceremonies would be broadcast.

Navy Bill Foes Center Attack On Super-Ships

Try to Eliminate Authorization for Three 45,000-Ton Warships

NYE ASSUMES LEAD

Senate Naval Committee Unanimously in Favor Of Expansion Plan

Washington.—(AP)—Opponents of the administration's "big navy" bill centered their efforts today on an attempt to eliminate authorization for three 45,000-ton super-dreadnaughts.

"If we can't defeat the bill, we may at least be able to stop the building of more battleships," said Senator Nye (R-N. D.), a leader of the bloc which contends such vessels are unnecessary except for a campaign of aggression.

The senate naval committee approved the $1,156,000,000 expansion bill by a unanimous vote yesterday, but three Democratic members who did not vote—Borah of Washington, Gillette of Iowa and Holt of West Virginia—said they would oppose it on the floor. The measure may come up for debate Tuesday.

Congress in Recession
Both senate and house were in recess today and also will take a holiday Monday.

A prediction of early passage came from Chairman Walsh (D-Mass.). He sought to win senate approval before the end of next week.

The purpose of the bill, Walsh declared, is to "notify the world that we intend to build the navy up to a 5-5-3 ratio." This was the old ratio sought for the relative strength of American, British and Japanese navies.

In addition to increasing the capital ship tonnage from 105,000 as approved by the house, to 130,000, the senate committee boosted the total tonnage for two proposed aircraft carriers from 30,000 to 40,000. As a result, the total authorized expenditure was increased from the $1,121,000,000 in the house bill to $1,156,000,000.

The 46 warships, including the three battleships, two airplane carriers, nine cruisers, 23 destroyers and nine submarines, to be authorized under the bill, would cost an estimated $81,000,000.

350 Airplanes
Nine hundred fifty airplanes would be built at a cost of $106,000,000 to bring the navy's minimum plane strength to 3,000.

When the house goes back to work Tuesday, it will vote on the billion-dollar agriculture department supply bill. All items in the measure have been passed on except the appropriation for federal highway aid.

The joint committee of senators and representatives seeking to adjust differences in the tax revision measures passed by the two bodies will meet Monday.

Despite the recovery legislation proposed by the president, some congressional leaders predicted adjournment by May 14, the date tentatively set.

They said naval expansion, recovery measures and the tax bill were the only major items for action before the session ended.

Blames 'Whites' For Outbreaks

Ickes Orders Referendum Election by Chippewa Tribe

Washington.—(AP)—Secretary Ickes blamed "white persons" today for the recent Indian disorders at Cass Lake, Minn., and ordered a referendum election by the Chippewa tribe on the proposal to move its administrative headquarters to Duluth.

He called for a vote within three weeks and placed Chester E. Faris, senate field representative of the commission of Indian affairs, in charge.

"Seventeen days ago," he added, "the government's records at the Cass Lake Indian agency were seized by a crowd of local Indians, openly incited by white persons resident at Cass Lake. For more than two weeks, this illegal seizure and concealment of government files and property has continued. The situation is an intolerable one and should be brought to an end."

"I have referred the case to the attorney general for appropriate criminal or civil action, in the event that the lawless actions by the local citizenry are kept up."

The referendum among the Indians will decide where the agency shall be located permanently. In the meantime, the administrative headquarters is Duluth, and there the government's records should be deposited.

Anglo-Italian Pact Signed In Rome Is Hailed as Step Toward Peace in Europe

Rome.—(AP)—Italy and Great Britain tonight signed an Eastertide pact to end nearly three years of often dangerous differences and bring peace to Europe.

The accord was signed by Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano and the earl of Perth, the British ambassador, in Chigi palace while diplomats and newspaper men looked on.

It duce and Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain already have approved the treaty to end Anglo-Italian friction which started when British-backed sanctions were applied by the League of Nations against Italy Nov. 18, 1935.

Principal provisions of the pact were to bring speedy recognition of the Italian conquest of Ethiopia, withdrawal of Italian troops from Spain, and to recognize and protect each other's rights in the Mediterranean.

The hope this pact eventually would bring peace to Europe was based on the plan to have France reach a similar accord with Italy, which then would bring Great Britain, Germany, France and Italy into a possible working agreement to stabilize the continent.

The treaty was fruit of talks Ciano and Perth started March 2 carrying out the British prime minister's revised foreign policy of seeking agreements with Europe's dictators.

It was over this policy that Anthony Eden quit as British foreign minister Feb. 20.

Nature of Agreement
The agreement consists of a proposed with eight annexes, an appended declaration and an exchange of letters. Two copies each of the documents were signed by Perth and Ciano.

The Egyptian minister, Mustafa El Sadek Bey, signed those sections concerning relations with Egypt.

Text of the agreement was kept secret for announcement at midnight tonight (6 p. m. E. S. T.).

Formalities of signing took place in the Chigi palace victory room where the same representatives of Italy and Britain signed "gentlemen's agreement" Jan. 2, 1937, which failed to attain the desired result of maintaining the status quo in the Mediterranean.

Italian aid to insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco in Spain has disturbed Anglo-Italian relations almost continually since then.

Thousands Cheer
Thousands massed outside the palace cheered Perth and the British embassy staff as they departed.

That resumption of friendly relations with Britain brought a feeling of vast relief to Italians everywhere was evident from the comment of the man in the street as they walked.

Confessed Slayer of 3 Is Questioned in Ohio

Youngstown, Ohio.—(AP)—Michigan state police investigating a triple farm slaying in that state arrived today to question Norman Smith, 19, who confessed to Sheriff Ralph Elser he killed an Ohio farm family of three because he "simply had the urge."

The young farmhand was seized yesterday and confessed, Elser said, to the slaying of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Baumeister and the former's father, Theodore, last Jan. 4, about three weeks after he entered their employ.

Sheriff Elser said Smith, native of Indiana county in Pennsylvania, confessed orally he had quarreled with the Baumeisters over wages, but in a written statement said, "I simply had the urge to kill."

Leaders Consider Plan To Speed Congress Action

HEARING APRIL 20

Administration Is Pushing Other Parts Of Program

Washington.—(AP)—Congressional leaders, eager for quick action, considered today drafting an "omnibus bill" to carry through congress President Roosevelt's main relief and public works recommendations for spending to end the recession.

Chairman Taylor (D-Colo.) of the house appropriations committee, indicated this procedure might be followed when he announced hearings would start Wednesday. He said Works Progress Administrator Harry L. Hopkins would be the first witness. Hearings should be completed, Taylor said, by May 1.

The largest item in the big bill will be the proposed $1,250,000,000 for relief for the first seven months of the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Additional Grants
What other items will be included was under study. It was expected, however, to contain an allotment of $450,000,000 for public works grants to cities and states and whatever additional appropriations and authorizations may be necessary to provide for works loans.

Informal members said it was virtually certain the housing authority would need additional powers to carry out the proposed new $300,000,000 slum clearance program.

Administration agencies and congress acted yesterday to hasten other phases of the program.

The federal reserve board cut by about one-eighth the reserve funds formerly required of banks, thus increasing the total of money they have available for lending by about $750,000,000.

Expand Nation's Credit
Previously the treasury had released gold credit amounting to $1,392,000,000. Thus the combined federal reserve and treasury actions expanded the nation's credit by $2,142,000,000.

The securities commission, in line with recommendations in Mr. Roosevelt's recovery measure, simplified registration procedure to make it easier, faster and cheaper for small business firms to issue stocks and bonds.

The Reconstruction Finance corporation already has begun its new program of lending to both large and small enterprises unable to get bank credit, out of its $1,500,000,000 of available resources.

The senate appropriations committee approved the proposed $50,000,000 increase in the civilian conservation corps allotment for 1938-39. It previously had received house approval.

Flood Control
House leaders arranged to write a $37,000,000 increase for flood control projects into the war department's pending non-military appropriation bill.

While President Roosevelt linked to his program anti-monopoly measures and legislation to tax state and local government salaries and the income from future issues of government securities, many congressional leaders discounted the probability of action along that line at this session.

One administration senator predicted that on monopoly the president would ask only appointment of a committee to study possible improvements in anti-trust laws.

California Legislator Succumbs in Washington

Washington.—(AP)—Representative Charles J. Golden, 68, a California Democrat who came to congress in 1932, died yesterday. One of his proudest boasts was that he had not missed a house roll call in his five years of service.

Customers' Loss In Closed Firm Is Set at $730,000

Chicago.—(AP)—The loss to customers of Hoagland Allum company, Inc., La Salle street brokerage, was estimated today at $730,000 by an official of the securities and exchange commission.

SEC Administrator, said an inventory disclosed a shortage of $675,000 in stocks and bonds and $53,000 in cash in the firm's accounts.

Eugene O'Connor, head of the state's blue sky division office here, said the only cash assets thus far uncovered totaled $30.

The firm was closed and closed in receivership after being raided by state's attorney police Thursday.

The partners were charged with embezzlement and held in jail in lieu of $200,000 bond each. They were George F. Allum, 32, president, Olaf A. Larsen, 46, vice president, and Henry A. Engel, 42, secretary-treasurer.

O'Connor Seeking Vote This Session On Pay-Hour Bill

New Yorker Meets Immediate Opposition to His Proposal

Washington, (P)—Chairman O'Connor (D-N. Y.) appealed to members of the house rules committee today to support him in a move to give the house a chance to vote on the revised wage-hour bill this session. He encountered immediate opposition.

The New Yorker wrote every member of the committee, which blocked the legislation at the regular and special sessions last year and contributed to one of the administration's worst defeats, requesting them to give the new bill careful study.

"I trust after a careful consideration of the bill and reports," he wrote, "you will see fit in joining me in presenting the matter to the house."

Remains Firm Representative Cox (D-Ga.) one of the leading opponents of the bill on the committee asserted, however, the committee would not change its attitude.

"It still is my opinion," he declared, "that there will be no house consideration of any wage-hour bill at this session."

Last year, only four of the 14 rules committee members were known to favor the legislation so that at least four others would have to switch to permit approval of a special rule to send the measure to the house floor.

Connor said he probably would call a committee meeting for the week of April 25 to consider giving the new measure a high place on the house calendar.

The measure would build a 25-cent floor under wages and a 44-hour ceiling over working time for interstate workers without differentials for present low-pay areas.

Authorize Utility To Extend Service

134 Towns of 15 Counties Affected by Commission's O. K.

Madison, (P)—The public service commission gave blanket authority today to the Wisconsin Public Service corporation to extend rural electric service in 134 towns of 15 northern counties.

Counties involved are Brown, Calumet, Door, Forest, Kewaunee, Langlade, Lincoln, Manitowish, Marathon, Marinette, Oconto, Oneida, Portage, Vilas and Winnebago.

At the same time the commission refused the utility blanket approval of extensions in 13 other towns where there is an actual or potential dispute over operating rights.

They are Pariah, Langlade county; Harding, Tomahawk and Wilson, Lincoln county; Green Valley and Gunther, Marathon county; Dunbar and Goodman, Marinette county; Doty, Oconto county; Little Rice and Woodbury, Oneida county; Grant, Portage county, and Dayton, Waupaca county.

The company recently withdrew application for authority to operate in the towns of Somo, Lincoln county; Lynne, Oneida county; Pound, Marinette county, and Brazeau, Oconto county.

In rural areas which are near to a municipal plant, the commission held that a private utility may obtain operating rights by entering into a formal agreement with the municipal utility and filing it with the commission.

No decision was reached on either suggestion and both will be submitted to the city council at a meeting Wednesday evening.

Iron Ore and Coal Carriers Inactive As Season Opens

Prospects on Great Lakes Far Below Those of Last Year

Cleveland, Ohio, (P)—Vessels in various specialized Great Lakes trades started moving today as summer insurance rates became effective. But few of the big bulk carriers of iron ore and coal answered the go signal.

A year ago every bottom of the Great Lakes was bringing down ore from the northern Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota ranges.

The big fellows, which are the backbone of the lake trade, will swing into action a few at a time as business conditions warrant.

Vesselmen predict the ore movement this year will not exceed 25,000,000 tons, unless there is a sudden and sustained upturn in the steel making rate. Last year's movement was 66,000,000 tons. Only about 50 per cent of the ore carrying fleet will operate this year.

Heavy Grain Movement Pittsburgh steamship, largest fleet on the lakes, has ordered outfitting of only 40 of their 79 vessels. This is 60 per cent of the company's trip capacity basis. Other fleets will operate on a smaller ratio.

Vesselmen however predict the heaviest grain movement out of Chicago this year than in more than a decade.

Two cargoes of ore have been dispatched from Duluth for Lake Michigan points and several more are scheduled to be moved shortly.

A number of vessels were scheduled to load coal at Sandusky over the weekend. The St. William Fairbairn is due at Marquette, Mich. Monday or Tuesday with the first coal load for that port of the season.

Vessels, in the automobile, cement and oil trade have been operating for sometime.

Milwaukee, (P)—The steamer Mariposa's arrival today from Toledo, Ohio, marked actual opening of the 1938 marine season. The vessel carried 5,000 tons of stoker coal for local discharge.

Ice was out of sight in the Straits of Mackinac, ship's officers reported.

Relief Costs in City Last Month Totaled $6,634

Amount Is Lower Than for Previous Month and March of 1937

City relief costs of $6,634.26 during March were lower than for the preceding month and for March of 1937, according to a report compiled by the relief accounting department for F. A. W. Hammond, city relief director. The total relief cost for February was $6,634.25 and for March 1937, $7,108.93.

During March 241 relief cases were cared for as compared to 228 in February and 255 in March of 1937.

Payments to other counties for city cases not residing in Appleton amounted to $463.86. These payments in February amounted to $148.53. Sixty-two county charges were cared for by the city at a cost of $1,868.47 and the city will be reimbursed that amount.

March relief administration costs were $866.64, a decrease of $88.73 from February. Provisions cost $3,142.39, an increase of $131.85 over the previous month; shelter $1,064.44, an increase of $103.66; clothing $99.49, a decrease of $84.66; fuel $885.94, a decrease of $265.73; public utilities $19.97, an increase of $4.22. Medical costs included drugs and equipment $141.96, physicians $77.20, dental care $82.50, hospitalization $112.25 and miscellaneous $7.50. Direct relief paid in cash totaled $72.70 and all other direct relief $20.42.

Father, Son, Separated 20 Years Ago, are Reunited in Milwaukee

Milwaukee, (P)—A father and son, separated 20 years through a misunderstanding, were reunited today.

Alex Szczepanski, town of Milwaukee resident, had a joyous meeting last night with 22-year-old Bernard, the son he last saw as a 2-year-old baby when he went off to war in 1918.

On his return from war Szczepanski was informed his wife had died and their boy, placed in an orphanage, had since been adopted into a wealthy family.

Bernard hadn't.

The boy lived at St. Joseph's orphanage until 1934 when he enrolled in the civilian conservation corps and was stationed at Camp Dunbar in northern Wisconsin.

His superior, Captain Matthew J. Konop, learned Bernard had no certain knowledge of his father's death and wrote to the Rev. Joseph Zuchala, chaplain at the orphanage, asking him to investigate the youth's antecedents.

Father Zuchala, in his search, found in circuit court records an Alois Szczepanski listed as an executor of his brother's estate. Sheriff's deputies were enlisted and they discovered where he was living.

So Szczepanski, since remarried, and Bernard, now a curly-haired strapping man, met at the Milwaukee road station last night. There was no embarrassment and no strangeness between them as they embraced and shook hands again and again.

Szczepanski said Bernard would leave the camp and stay here with him.

"We have a home," said the father, "and it will be his home."

setback, and that every effort would be made to maintain normal conditions in the territory under his control.

Predicts Victory In his first interview, General Miaja minimized the seriousness of the government's situation and expressed confidence the final outcome of the war would be favorable to the government.

News that the insurgents had dismembered government Spain was neither surprising nor unexpected, since the severance of Catalonia had been regarded as almost inevitable for the past two weeks, even though the government succeeded in obtaining strong reinforcements for its air force.

The bulk of government Spain under General Miaja still has radio contact with Catalonia and the capital at Barcelona. It also has contact by air and sea, although the insurgents are conducting a blockade of the Mediterranean coast.

Send Supplies For weeks the government has been sending essential supplies into the Madrid area in expectation of its territory being split asunder. Troops were said to be supplied and munitioned to carry on the fight for several months on central and southern battle fronts.

General Miaja, in assuming power, announced that the sternest discipline would be instituted in his territory to set a proper example for the troops. He seemed the calmest of any official in Madrid, terming the Vinaroz break through as just another episode of the war.

War enthusiasm dug largely to the intensive recruiting campaign which has been going on throughout government Spain, was noticeable in Madrid.

It was estimated that approximately 10,000,000 persons live in the part of government Spain under General Miaja. Beside Madrid, the principal points are Valencia, Alicante and Almeria.

State Industrial Situation Termed Extremely Serious

Increases in WPA Quotas Have Cut Relief Costs, Flanner Says

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau) Madison — P. D. Flanner, state WPA administrator and director of the state public welfare department, said today that sharp increases in WPA quotas for Wisconsin have meant a corresponding decrease in the relief loads of Wisconsin counties, cities, towns and villages, but warned that "the industrial situation in Wisconsin is extremely serious."

Wisconsin's general relief load, according to preliminary reports received from local units of government, dropped by more than 4,000 cases from its February peak of 58,800, Flanner said. In February the case load represented 215,000 persons.

"Even sharper declines may be expected during April and following months," he said, "if the WPA quota is maintained anywhere near its present level."

Since the middle of December, the WPA has doubled the number of certified relief persons employed on its projects. Over 68,000 persons are now employed throughout the state, according to a current report from the state office. An additional 1,400 certified relief persons are working on federal works projects sponsored by other federal agencies in the state.

Payments of unemployment compensation benefits by the state unemployment compensation department to about 42,000 persons during both February and March contributed materially to the March relief load in the local relief rolls, Flanner said.

Payments of unemployment compensation benefits by the state unemployment compensation department to about 42,000 persons during both February and March contributed materially to the March relief load in the local relief rolls, Flanner said.

"If Wisconsin had not been granted such a large increase in WPA quota and had not so many workers benefited through the payment of unemployment compensation," he said, "Wisconsin's peak relief load this winter would have totaled much more than it did. Reports from other states show that the case load has risen most in those which have not yet begun to pay unemployment compensation benefits."

Emphasizing that the industrial situation in Wisconsin is still "extremely serious," Flanner said that the "significant change for the better has been most in the cases received general relief in February than in any month since the large scale transfer of relief cases to the federal works program was virtually completed in January, 1938. The cases receiving relief this March totaled about 15 per cent more than in March 1937."

Although predicting that a smaller relief load can be anticipated for the immediate future for the state as a whole, Flanner said that in many industrial centers there is a possibility of still further relief demands. Curtailment of employment in the Fox river valley paper mills has been more drastic than at any other time in recent years, he pointed out.

Most stricken centers, at present, however, are Kenosha, Racine, Milwaukee, LaCrosse and Oshkosh, he said.

"Thousands of recipients of unemployment compensation are now becoming ineligible for further benefits. How many of these workers will need relief after exhausting their unemployment compensation benefits, we do not know. But, it may be substantial unless industrial conditions improve and they go back to work," the state relief chief explained.

He announced that the county agencies affiliated with the state welfare department are now also serving as branch offices of the Wisconsin State Employment service, and are making drives to obtain employment for as many persons as possible. They have found, however, that reemployment in rural areas is difficult because of a lack of roads and for seasonal labor this spring as compared with previous years.

Five Vocational Schools Shoulder Cooperative Plan

Better Training of Apprentices Is Cited as Advantage

Vocational schools of Appleton, Kaukauna, Kimberly, Menasha, and Neenah have organized the Central Fox Valley Unit of Vocational schools, a cooperative working agreement which will provide a wider and more thorough adult educational program next fall.

The purpose of the organization is to coordinate instruction in fields of interest by circuit teachers. Although several courses already are operating on this cooperative basis, it will not be until next September that the full 15 classes will be organized.

The plan permits the teaching of apprentices by a circuit instructor in the field which the apprentice problem exists or in which it is likely to appear. By the cooperative plan, the five cities send their apprentices to one of the vocational schools for study and in this way are able to offer four hours of apprentice instruction weekly for the entire year.

Courses which will make up the cooperative program next fall are as follows: baking, barbering, carpentry, cosmetology, electricity, electrical engineering, first aid, foundry, painting and decorating, pharmacy, plumbing, police education, pulp and paper, sales, steam and power engineering.

Following are the advantages cited for the program: (1) Provides well planned educational service in certain enumerated fields on a continuing basis; (2) Distributes cost so that yearly amount spent for circuit instruction is same and reduces periods of high and low expenses; (3) Provides instruction for journeymen in each city on a short-unit evening school basis; (4) Provides four hours of apprentice instruction each week for entire year; (5) Gives continuity of contact with occupation in each city by the instructor; (6) Eliminates duplication of equipment.

Roosevelt's Talk Excludes Plan of Debt Retirement

Expects Magic Philosophy To Get Government 'Out Of Red,' Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE Washington—The more you borrow, the higher goes your income. The higher goes your income, the quicker you get "out of the red."

This magic philosophy or new economics pronounced by President Roosevelt in his latest radio address is one that will provoke a good deal of discussion and debate, for, if Mr. Roosevelt is right about it and government can be conducted that way, individuals will be eager to apply the same rules to their own affairs.

Says the president: "If this citizen income can be raised to $80,000,000,000 a year, the national government and the overwhelming majority of state and local governments will be 'out of the red.' The higher the national income goes, the faster will we be able to reduce the total of federal, state and local debts."

Back in 1929, the national income was about $81,000,000,000 and the federal debt was about $17,000,000,000.

Income Drops Today the national income is running at the rate of $56,000,000,000, having dropped twelve billion from last year, and the federal debt has risen to about $37,000,000,000.

Mr. Roosevelt points out that the national income was about $30,000,000,000 in 1937 than in 1932 and that the federal debt had increased about $16,000,000,000 since then. Does he mean now that, as "pump priming" is resumed in order to raise the national income, it is also healthy to keep on adding to the federal debt?

The record shows that, between 1932 and 1937, there was the most rapid increase in the federal debt at any time in our history, with the single exception of the war years. Approximately two dollars of national income was added for every dollar of increased debt. Applying Mr. Roosevelt's line of thought, it will be all right for America to attain an $80,000,000,000 national income—or $12,000,000,000 increase over 1937—and an increase concurrently of about $6,000,000,000 in federal debt.

The national government would then have a debt of about $43,000,000,000 and a national income of $81,000,000,000. Just how the federal government is going to be better off than it is today is difficult to follow, unless Mr. Roosevelt thinks that a balancing of tax receipts and expenses is going to be possible only when an $80,000,000,000 national income is attained. If that is what he means by getting "out of the red," then the American people will find themselves with the biggest debt in all history and with a tax bill which will take the biggest chunk ever taken out of the national income.

Non-Profit Ventures Taxation is extracting a bigger and bigger sum annually out of the stream of purchasing power and the money is being turned over to the government to be spent in WPA and other non-productive ventures which do not add to the permanent wealth of the country.

When the percentage of tax receipts to national income gets to be 20 per cent, then the national income usually breaks down. This has been the experience of governments in many parts of the world. The cost of government today—federal, state, and local—is about $17,000,000,000 a year. Divide that by the national income of $80,000,000,000 and you have about 21 per cent. This would mean that one out of every five dollars earned would have to be given directly or indirectly to carry the cost of government in America.

Tax receipts today are way below the 20 per cent mark of national income and are really around 12 per cent. The difference covering the total cost of government being made up by borrowings. And the tax rates are so high already that they interfere with consumer buying.

What Mr. Roosevelt never takes into consideration is that taxes are a part of the cost of living and that the exchange of goods and products tends to diminish and unemployment ensues whenever the price

State Hopes to Better 1937 Record of Fish Propagation

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison — The state's artificial fish propagation program for 1938, which state conservation officials say will equal or better the all time record of 1937, began this week with the planting of trout fingerlings in the inland waters of various parts of the state.

At the same time state employees began the work of collecting spawn for the state hatcheries which later this year will pour forth millions of young fish of a dozen different species to be planted in the thousands of lakes and streams of Wisconsin.

Debt Retirement The president says nothing either about debt retirement. In his budget of $7,000,000,000 a year, he makes no allowance for sizeable debt reduction. Maybe he has never borrowed any money at the banks in his life and maybe he has never been in a business which borrows money, but the customary experience of a citizen who seeks to borrow is that he must make some provision for paying back what he owes.

Pegler Says Roosevelt Coat Holders are Bums

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York — We would come to a better understanding of things in Washington if Mr. Roosevelt had for apologists and coat holders some calm and reasonable men instead of those hysterical beshrews who squawk like neurotic women every time their man drops a duke on some issue. It is conceded that the reorganization bill in its final stage was only a hollow shell of the bill which originally it had been planned to build through congress and that even if it had passed in this gaunt and feeble version it would have made little difference. If that is the case, then why all the screaming for gossakes?

More hopeful would be an honest discussion of the known perfidy of the unspeakable bums who have made a flea bag of the sacred edifice of the New Deal and have exploited the tragedy of the ill-kept third and the paralysis of business to grab billions of dollars for their own rotten political purposes.

It would be helpful, too, to place a little more emphasis on the fact that business, which often is mentioned by Mr. Roosevelt's bleeders as though it were akin to brother keeping, is a respectable and necessary institution and that even at its worst it was altruistic by comparison with the remorseless poor box robbing by which the New Deal keeps its ganders bought.

For those who do not know what a bleeder is I will explain that when Gene Tunney was prominent in the ring his best friend was a little society boxer from Greenwich, Conn., named Sam Pryor, now treasurer of the Republican party, who used to hurt worse than any man Tunney himself whenever anyone said anything that was less than ideologically correct about his hero. Mr. Pryor came to be known to the cauliflower profession as Tunney's bleeder, and, judging by the volume and stridency of the shrieks from the president's corner, it is apparent that he has his bleeders, too.

The president himself took it and grinned with blood on his gums, offering no claim of foul when reorganization failed, but from behind his stool the air is filled with yelps of "Dirty work!" and "They hit him with an ax!"

"Bribe" is Nasty Word But What's a Better One

Well, now, the infighting was pretty fast and rugged for a few minutes there, and if I saw any ax used at all it was at the same time when those White House emissaries, as they were called in the Washington copy, were going around buzzing senators with threats of revenge if they should vote against the bill and promises of bribes if they should vote for it.

All right, "bribe" is a nasty word, to paraphrase an advertisement of a few years back, but you tell me a better word to use for promises of money to buy votes for senators in return for voting a certain way. Whose money is that, anyway? Is it the Democratic party's money or the community's money? But I heard no bleeders squeak about that!

I wasn't paying very close attention then, but I will take the record for it that business used to carry on bid-and-ask dealings with the statesmen in the evil days of old. But right now a business man would take his life in his hands if he offered a statesman any such proposition as we are given to believe was put to numerous senators, and yet the senate, with all its right of pit and gallows, its power of rack and screw over private citizens, hasn't said "eye," "yes," "no" or "I'll take vanilla" about a common report amounting to a national scandal and a very dirty reflection on its own membership. Is this business or can it be politics of an uncommonly sordid type?

One night last fall Mr. Roosevelt said this country needed democracy and more democracy. That seemed like a lot of us, altho I would have proposed some retroactive democracy at the time. A few months earlier, when the president was wiggling a lot of rich about their income taxes and the statesmen flatly refused to do the same to the president's son James, the selfsame secretary who goes around telling Massachusetts and Florida what "we" think about the governorship or the election of a senator. If Jimmy's conduct is a sample of that selfishness and anonymity which might have been multiplied by six, I would say that democracy has just recovered the ball on downs on its own goal line.

And, moreover, if democracy is desired, what seems to be the complaint when the elected representatives in congress consult their consciences, or whatever it was that they consulted, when they were voting for the president's stuff and this time answered "No?"

One serious trouble in Washington is that not only business men but a huge element of Americans who were for Mr. Roosevelt for a long time have been yipped out of the party by his bleeders and estranged from him, leaving him in the company of a lot of high-strung glory-hunters who pretend to be his only true friends.

Business, which would like to help, is insulted, reviled and roweled, and the worst set of political peder-men that has infested this country since the carpetbaggers is robbing a nation into bankruptcy in the name of the New Deal.

"One of the highest compliments paid to conservation development in Wisconsin," the assemblyman said, "was when President Roosevelt sent men to Wisconsin to study our conservation laws and took a copy back to Washington to use as a model."

Scott Leavitt of the United States forestry service, spoke on the forest and objectives of his department in the state. Other members of his department spoke briefly on the same subject.

Swanson spoke on the conservation teaching program as developed in the Appleton school system and told of the local chapter's juvenile program at the Wilson and Roosevelt Junior High schools.

Building Activity Here Shows Slump In First Quarter

Construction Men Attribute Drop to Business Recession

Building in Appleton during the first three months of 1938 is in a decided slump when compared to the same period last year, reports of the building inspector show. Last year, construction estimated at $140,130 was authorized during January, February and March while this year the inspector authorized $93,915 during the same period.

In March last year, a permit was granted to build the new senior high school which was estimated at $785,000. The project took up much of the labor slack in the city but no project of the proportions of the high school is in sight for 1938.

Construction men questioned on the cause of the building slump blame the business recession and intimate that the high wages demanded by trade labor may have something to do with it.

Homes started during the first three months last year numbered 18 and were estimated to cost $81,200, while this year, during the same period, 12 residences were started and were estimated to cost $34,450.

Estimated figures for remodeling work are leading last year while mercantile estimates were more here in 1937. Permits for remodeling this year numbered 25 against about 20 during the same period last year and the estimated total for this year is about $1,000 more than in 1937.

Permits for remodeling this year numbered 25 against about 20 during the same period last year and the estimated total for this year is about $1,000 more than in 1937.

No permits were issued for new garages during January, February and March this year while four were issued during the first three months last year.

Sam Citizen Finds That These Penny Scales are All Rugged Individualists

BY DON ANDERSON

Sam Citizen shoved aside a clutter of papers on his desk one day this week, peered out the window at the warm weather, and decided to drift off of his office for a stroll on College avenue and a cold drink.

He slipped out quietly and joined the moving throng on Appleton's main street, looking at the faces that passed by in an endless stream and stopping occasionally when a pair of new shoes or a green topcoat in a store window caught his eye. After a bit, he turned into a drugstore and sidled up to the counter for his drink.

He heard a couple young women engaged in rapid-fire conversation nearby. Without even trying, Sam Citizen heard a good deal of what they were talking about, which was mainly the subject of gaining and losing weight and figuring out proper diet. Sam looked into his glass, jiggled the ice, and wondered at the richness of a life that made people worry about what not to eat instead of what to eat.

"There's a scale over in the corner," Sam heard one of the young women say. "Let's weigh ourselves."

Sam can see the corner happened to be near where Sam was sitting and by hoisting himself a little higher on the stool he was able to get a good look at the gauge on the scale. He was disappointed, because he didn't think either of the young ladies weighed very much, but both of them seemed horrified and exclaimed over how one just didn't realize when one was putting on weight and what would they look like in summer clothes.

They did, however, seem to enjoy the fortunes written on the other side of the cards which recorded their weights, Sam thought, and they laughed quite loud and long over the character analysis which each received for only one cent.

After they had passed by Sam with a swish of silk and a wave of perfume and clicked out of the store on their high heels, he jiggled the ice in his glass again and got to thinking about those penny scales that are as indigenous to the corner drugstore as organs are to churches.

Finds Pennies
Sam Citizen reached in his pocket to get money for his drink and discovered that he had several pennies and after he had shoved a nickel across the counter he walked up to the scale, stood on its quivering platform, and dropped one of the pennies in the slot. The scale responded with a dull thud and suddenly spit out a little card. Sam looked at the top side. It gave him weight as 168 pounds and of Sam himself, the card said, "Though eager for success, you are quick to realize that all good things take time."

On the other side of the card was a picture of a rather doll-like young woman and under the picture was written the name "Peggy Wood." Sam Citizen couldn't place her, but decided that she must be affiliated with Hollywood somehow and that if he gave movie magazines more than a cursory glance he probably would remember her. Sam stuck the card in his pocket, went out on the street, and fell in step with Appleton people walking along in the sun and talking about how they heard the temperature was way over 70 degrees.

Sam is interested. About a block further, he noticed another scale, this one standing outside a store. By this time Sam was interested in penny scales and this one made him pause and dip into his pocket for another coin. He stood on the scale and dropped the penny in the slot and watched the arrow swing back and forth and finally settle on 163 pounds. Sam stroked his chin thoughtfully and wondered how he could have pared off two and a half pounds in a block and considered briefly finding the two young ladies who were so worried about being overweight and suggesting that they walk the same stretch of College avenue and see if it would do the same for them.

He didn't get his fortune told on this scale and it annoyed him a little, but he soon forgot it in his search for another one. He had the fever.

He found it, a block and a half further on, sitting prominently near the entrance of a store. This time Sam Citizen had to wait for a couple kids to stop trying to cheat the thing and endure the questioning looks of grownups standing nearby who seemed to be puzzled at Sam's even wanting to wait for his turn at a penny scale. Finally there was an opening and he bolted in, got rid of his penny, and waited.

Anxious Wait
The scale had more suspense than the others and there was quite a spell of anxious waiting while the penny scuttled down into the mechanism and set it to going. There was a hum that reminded Sam Citizen of the cream separator back on the farm and then the card slid out.

"You are apt to get excited and make things lively if the world disagrees with you," the card stated succinctly. Sam Citizen blinked at the allegation and then centered his attention on the recorded weight. He blinked even harder, for in the block and a half he had regained whole pound, and now weighed 163.

Sam went back out into the sun again and resumed his College avenue stroll. He crossed the street onto the other side and as he was passing another drugstore, found that he had smoked his last cigarette. He wheeled into the doorway and as he was giving the young lady 15 cents for the pack, he spied another penny scale way off toward the back of the store. It had become an obsession by now and Sam Citizen plucked another penny out of his pocket and almost ran towards the scale.

Sam Has to Work
This one was different from any of the others in that Sam actually had to weigh himself! The scale didn't become workable until it had gulped the penny but then the bar loosened and Sam could slide the big weight along to the 160 mark and then balance the scale with the little one. When he and the scale had reached an agreement, Sam Citizen weighed only a half-pound less than when he started out, 167.

"I'm coming up," Sam thought to himself. "Pretty soon I'll be healthy again. If I try it once more, I'll be back at 163 and then I'll be satisfied."

He started back towards the office, glancing into stores and shops to see if he could find another penny scale. As he was passing the open door of a tavern, he saw one, gulped near the end of the bar, Sam Citizen smiled to himself, walked in, and stepped confidently on the scale. The bartender looked disappointed.

It was one of those high devices with a face that stared directly at

Sam as he deposited his penny. The penny scrambled down the chute and the arrow moved slowly and with great effort up from the zero level. It moved with a great uncertainty, as though tired, and when it reached the zone of Sam's weight, wavered back and forth. Sam Citizen took a deep breath and stood as still as he could. Finally the arrow stopped, dead center, on 167. Sam had lost a half-pound.

Gov. Murphy Busy With Relief and Primary Problems

Michigan Chief Confronted With Emergency And Coming Election

Lansing, Mich. — (AP)—Governor Frank Murphy returns to Michigan next week from a speaking trip to Wichita, Kas., and a hurried dash to Washington to discuss relief problems with federal officials—in a dual role.

In the state capital he will be the harried executive, face-to-face with a welfare emergency that is helping to pile up a deficit expected to reach $15,000,000. Elsewhere—in Saginaw, Jackson, Grand Rapids and Kalamazoo—he may emerge as an active campaigner instead of an unannounced candidate, by tacit admission, for the Democratic party's renomination.

Would Limit Relief
The governor will have 10 days to prepare for a meeting of the emergency appropriations commission, the second since its creation by the 1937 legislature. Such a gathering, confronted by controversial issues, provide an ideal sounding board for softly spoken official criticism.

There has been much criticism of administration financial policies during the past fortnight. State Treasurer Theodore I. Fry and auditor General George T. Gundry, members of the administration board, urged a definite limit to relief expenditures by the state. Speaker George A. Schroeder of the house of representatives, another Democrat, privately expressed dissatisfaction with a plan to reorganize the state's accounting and budget system.

Both subjects will be raised again before the emergency commission, which will be asked to vote $1,000,000 for relief and $25,000 for an accounting reorganization plan.

Civil Service Funds
Another touchy topic with many members of the legislature will be a request for more funds for the civil service department.

While the governor is quieting objections to his program, he must also carry his pre-primary message to voters of the state. His schedule calls for speeches at a Democratic district rally in Saginaw Wednesday, at a party meeting in Jackson Saturday, at a banquet of the Michigan Good Roads federation in Grand Rapids April 28, and at another district rally in Kalamazoo May 4.

The voters have seen and heard a great deal more of his Republican rivals for the governorship than of Murphy in recent weeks. Eotm Frank D. Fitzgerald and Harry S. Toy have been conducting tours.

It Is Said—
That traffic on College avenue was the heaviest in a number of years between 3 and 5:30 yesterday afternoon. Officers were stationed at the intersections and no accidents were reported. The cause of the heavy traffic is believed to be the closing of the stores for three previous hours with shoppers going immediately from the churches to the business district.

WPA Leaders' School Closes at Green Bay
Sessions of the 3-day institute for WPA recreational leaders closed yesterday at Green Bay. A number of WPA leaders from Outagamie county attended the school. Various angles of recreation were studied, with stress placed on playground activities for the spring and summer months. Leading in the discussions and demonstrations were members of the state WPA recreational staff.

Star of Broadway In Cast of Comedy

Gladys George, Franchot
Tone Teamed in 'Love
Is a Headache'

Faithfully following the present trend toward macabre comedy with the assistance of a large cast of seasoned screen comedians, "Love Is a Headache" will be shown at the Elite Theater on Monday and Tuesday, Bargain Days, with Gladys George and Franchot Tone co-starring.

Miss George, star of many a brilliant Broadway comedy success, gets her first opportunity at screen comedy in the picture. Others in the all-comedy cast include Ted Healy, Mickey Rooney, Frank Jenks, Ralph Morgan, Virginia Weidler and Jessie Ralph.

"Love Is a Headache" concerns the problems of an actress whose press agent has caused her to adopt two orphaned children for publicity. When police suspect the children of having been kidnapped, the actress, played by Miss George, runs away to a small town.

There she is joined by Franchot Tone, a columnist who is in love with her. They confer on the mix-up. The innkeeper, also a justice of the peace, overhears their plotting and believing he is justified, forces them to marry at the point of a shotgun, which is exactly what they intended to do anyway.

'IN OLD CHICAGO' COMING FRIDAY

Tyrone Power, Alice Faye, and Don Ameche head the all star cast of "In Old Chicago" coming to the Rio theater Friday, and at no advance in the regular admission prices.

It is overpowering spectacle eclipsed only by the heart-warming story of the O'Learys, whose valor and faith will fill you with pride as you share their struggles and triumphs that meant the destruction . . . and the making of a great city.

Colbert, Cooper In Comedy Roles

'Bluebeard's Eighth Wife'
Now Playing at Rio
Theater

Claudette Colbert and Gary Cooper, Hollywood's newest comedy and romantic team, top the cast of the new Paramount picture, "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife," which is playing at the Rio Theater thru Monday.

"Bluebeard's Eighth Wife" continues the tradition of sophisticated comedy laid against a continental background, which has been so strong during the past year, outstanding examples being "Champane Waltz" and "I Met Him in Paris." The latter was a masterpiece of Director Ernst Lubitsch, who brings the new Colbert-Cooper production to the screen. Some of Europe's most glamorous pleasure spots figure prominently throughout the picture. The meeting and wedding of the couple takes place along the shores of the Riviera, while their madcap honeymoon takes them to such gay resorts as Venice, the Tyrol, Vienna, Switzerland and Paris. To make the continental background authentic, the meticulous Lubitsch sent cameramen to the capitals of Europe, from which they returned to Hollywood with over 30,000 feet of film.

There is much gaiety in the added feature on the same program, for Joe E. Brown is back, and he has brought with him a rib-tickling story and a cast that does not end of good. Joe has dished out heads of fun in his career, but rarely has he been as generous with his helpings as he is in Columbia's "Wide Open Faces," which took its first local bow yesterday.

As an amateur rubie detective, Joe can get in plenty of trouble, and his current story finds him in just such a role. He gets mixed up with a wholesale shipment of metropolitan gangsters quite by accident, and in no time at all the situation is well out of hand.

'ROSALIE' COMING TO ELITE

Nelson Eddy and Eleanor Powell are co-starring for the first time in the super-lavish musical, "Rosalie," which comes to the Elite Theatre next Wednesday for a 3-day engagement.

The musical also includes such favorites as Frank Morgan, Edna May Oliver, Ray Bolger, the new European sensation, Ilona Massey, Billy Gilbert and Reginald Owen in a story that concerns the love and adventures of a West Point cadet and a Princess of mythical Romania.

'Goldwyn Follies' Shows Radio Stars

Bergen and McCarthy in Cast of Picture Coming to Rialto

Never before has filmdom produced an entertainment feast to equal the eye-filling, heart-gladening, rib-tickling musical extravaganza which Samuel Goldwyn has achieved in his great technicolor show "The Goldwyn Follies," which open Sunday, Monday, Tuesday at Rialto theater, Kaukauna.

From the radio world, Goldwyn has recruited Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy, Kenny Baker, who is already known to screen audiences, and the irrepressible comic, Phil Baker and his accordion. From the screen come the suave Adolphe Menjou, those mad, merry Ritz Brothers, who have never been funnier, Andrea Leeds, the lovely young actress who scored so heavily in "Stage Door," and Jerome Cowan. From grand opera, he has brought us the Metropolitan Opera's lovely star, Helen Jepson, and the talented newcomer, Charles Kullman, both of whom make a triumphant screen debut. From the world of the dance we have the gorgeous Zorina, who proves talented as an actress as well as a dancer, and George Balanchine's famous American Ballet. From musical comedy comes fantastically funny Bobby Clark, who finds a perfect foil for his peculiar brand of madness in little Ella Logan. Then, of course, there is the usual dazzling aggregation of Gorgeous Goldwyn Girls, supplemented by a dozen of Hollywood's loveliest and most talented tap dancers.

New Hopalong Picture Is Showing at Elite

Red-blooded action of the type that America has come to expect from the "Hopalong Cassidy" Western stories, is supplied in good measure in the latest of these outdoor romances, "North of the Rio Grande," showing at the Elite theater today and Sunday.

William Boyd comes to the screen for the eleventh time in the role of the hard-riding, square-jawed "Hoppy," who within the space of a year has become the nation's favorite Western hero. With him ride "Windy," played by George Hayes, and "Lucky," Jenkins, portrayed by the handsome newcomer Russell Hayden.

Taken from the Clarence E. Mulford novel "Cottorwood Gulch," the story is concerned with the manner in which Cassidy rids a wildcat frontier town of its crook officials and in the same sweep annihilates a band of train robbers. Besides the hard-riding which characterizes these stories, there are a number of exciting railroad sequences which provide many thrills.

The cast also includes Stephen Morris, in a dual role; the charming Bernadene Hayes, John Ruthertford, Walter Lang, Lee Cobb, John Beach and Lorraine Randall. The picture upholds the fine standards for photography set by the previous "Hoppy" stories.

A young Irishwoman who complained that her husband spanked her "as one would beat an unruly child" won a separation decree in Dublin on the ground of cruelty.

Churchill, Barbara Pepper and Sidney Toler do much to enhance the general meritment.

A complete novelty in the way of a picture laid in the hillbilly country, dealing with hillbillies, and to a large extent played by hillbillies, is promised by "Swing Your Lady," the knockout laugh riot that opens April 27th at the Appleton Theatre.

With a large cast of stars — Humphrey Bogart, Penny Singleton, Louise Fazenda, Nat Pendleton, Frank McHugh and others — the story is an hilarious one about a big-time wrestling outfit that hits the hillbilly spots in the Ozarks and gets taken for a sleigh ride. And just to give an idea of the fun in store for you — Louise Fazenda plays a lady blacksmith who's also a wrestler!

Larry Crabbe — as the racket king's lieutenant — and Evelyn Brent — as one moll in a million — find romance among the machine guns and blackjacks in a new drama of hijacking, "Tip-Off Girls," which is to be the co-feature on this great midweek program.

Fields Heads Cast of Midweek Attraction

Easily the most lavish potpourri of music and mirth, fun and beautiful girls of the current season, "The Big Broadcast of 1938," Paramount's latest laugh musical, heads the big mid-week program at the Rio Theater, with a splendid cast starring W. C. Fields and including Martha Raye, Dorothy Lamour, Shirley Ross, Ben Blue, Bob Hope, Lynne Overman, Rufe Davis, Left Erikson, Grace Bradley and Tito Guizar. And just to make the cast of stellar performers overflow, er has tossed in specialty routines by Mimi Kuster Flagstad of the Metropolitan Opera and Shep Fields and His Rippling Rhythm Orchestra, currently heading the popularity lists among dance orchestras.

Always hilarious, always tuneful, always girl-filled and most of the time more than a little mad, "The Big Broadcast of 1938" is the story of a transatlantic boat race and a handsome radio announcer who can never keep track of the number of ex-wives to whom he is paying alimony.

"The Big Broadcast of 1938" introduces seven new song hits, which have already jumped into the "most-played" class. They are "You Took the Words Right Out of My Heart," "Mama, That Moon Is Here Again," "Thanks for the Memory," "The Waltz Lives On," "This Little Ripple Had Rhythm," "Don't Tell a Secret to a Rose" and "Sawing a Woman in Half." The first six songs listed are from the fertile pens of Leo Robin and Ralph Rainger, who have made a habit of hits, while Jack Rock is credited with the novelty "Sawing a Woman in Half."

A clever mystery, "Who Killed Gail Preston," is the added feature on this program.

Appleton Showing 'Bringing Up Baby'

Katherine Hepburn, Cary
Grant Head Cast of Current Attraction

Revealing the amazing Katherine Hepburn as the exponent of complete entertainment, "Bringing Up Baby" opens at the Appleton Theatre today for a 4-day run. Teamed with Miss Hepburn is Cary Grant, who intensifies the reputation for comedy which he so brilliantly established in "The Awful Truth."

The story starts off all places, in a museum of natural history, introducing Grant as curator, the fossil gallery who has just completed four years of work reconstructing the skeleton of a prehistoric brontosaurus. He is about to leave his secretary-fiancee to go to the golf course for a game with the lawyer of a woman who is contemplating giving a million dollars to the museum. It promises to be a quiet afternoon, until Grant slices his ball from the first tee and meets Hepburn. Then the fun, which never again lets down, starts its mad progress. Miss Hepburn has decided that she wants Grant for herself, and sets about preventing his marriage. Practically kidnapping him, she takes Grant to Connecticut where they meet with an astounding series of adventures before the film reaches its conclusion.

Miss Robison, Charlie Ruggles, Barry Fitzgerald, Fritz Feld, Leon Roberts, Virginia Walker, and George Irving give outstanding support. The cast also boasts two leopards, one of which, by the way, is the "Baby" of the title, and a mischievous dog.

The second feature on this program is "Boy of the Streets" starring Jackie Cooper and Maureen O'Connor. Jackie Cooper plays the role of a kid from the slums tempted by a career of crime. Maureen O'Connor who plays opposite Jackie in this picture, has had long experience with radio, despite the fact that she is only 14 years old. Others in the cast include Kathleen Burke, Marjorie Mann, who won laurels for her acting in "Dead End," Guy Usher, and George Cleveland.

DANGEROUS POSSIBILITIES

In Nebraska a grand jury is investigating alleged corruption in relation to public works.

This is manifestly a right which the Nebraska courts have.

But it became necessary to call WPA workers to give testimony in relation to claimed doings or practices and the grand jury found the WPA workers ordered not to speak.

It seems that Mr. Hopkins, WPA administrator, promulgated an order, the material part of which reads:

"In all cases where a WPA official or employee is requested to testify in regard to matters of official or confidential character knowledge of which was acquired in his official capacity, he shall respectfully decline to answer. If his reasons are requested by the court he shall state that the matter is privileged and cannot be disclosed without specific approval from the federal administrator."

Here we find a bureaucratic who considers he has some measure of control over the several million men who have been at times on WPA work and who thus become, under the practices and rulings of his department, mere puppets whose arms and legs and voice and eyes are operated by strings from Washington.

The circuit judge in charge of the grand jury in Nebraska said that "WPA men are ordinary citizens like the rest of us and just as amenable to our laws; the fact that they happen to be on WPA doesn't make them federal employees, and even if they were it wouldn't make any difference."

The very wise rule through which a federal employee is ordered to keep his lips closed in relation to the confidential instructions of his particular department is here stretched until it includes "knowledge which was acquired in his official capacity" and as to that he is told he must not speak else the wrath of Washington will be upon him, a wrath that may make some difference with that monthly check.

In a country like ours it may be assumed until the contrary appears that these men will duly give their evidence and that the ruling promulgated by Mr. Hopkins will be "construed" in the interest both of common sense and justice so that the administration of law will not be hamstrung by orders of those a thousand miles away. Nevertheless the example is a bright and wholesome one of the normal functioning of a great bureaucracy, the very natural order of the head of that bureaucracy that nothing shall be done, no desk hardly opened, none of the workers even speak, without getting his express consent.

And thus we see the growth of an intolerable fungus that has been prevented to date not only by numerous outcries and warnings but through the constant delineation of actual situations that present to the people the vital question whether the apparent advantages of bureaucracy can ever offset its constant smothering of right and justice and even life itself.

WARDEN LEE

Oscar Lee made a pronounced success of prison administration, which in itself is an extremely difficult and trying work, because he was made for the task, heart and brains.

No one ever heard of Mr. Lee "flying off the handle." He was one of those rare men who could be given virtually unrestricted authority over others without the least fear he would become a tyrant or otherwise abuse his power. He was not only tolerant and patient but he strove to look at the puzzling problem of life from all angles, and perhaps life is most puzzling to those who find themselves within the "cold gray walls."

Instinctively men, however, unruly, trusted him. Something seemed to tell them that he was "a square guy" willing to listen, to investigate, and then to conclude without bias or prejudice.

And yet, of course, Mr. Lee had to have another quality in order to complete his usefulness in such a position. He had to have the sort of firmness that is like set concrete after he once came to a conclusion as to what was clearly right.

He has served Wisconsin well during a long period of years. The only difficulty in filling his shoes arises from the necessity of clinging to the purpose of obtaining the same stamp of man.

OLD FRIENDS AGAIN

We are accorded the privilege again of viewing England and Italy in a common embrace like two old pals that have been lost in the desert and suddenly run into each other.

There is more reason for this peaceful move upon Italy's part than England's dominating naval strength. There is the fact that Berlin has suddenly grown strong, moved southward and with one embracing gesture increased her population by seven million and shortened the distance to the Italian border by several hundred miles.

Dictators recognize a common bond up to a certain point. When either wishes to go marauding there is cheer from the other so long as that other's vital interests do not become involved. But the heel of a dictator stepping on the toes of another dictator is just as painful as any other kind of heel.

The World was demonstrated pretty clearly that Italy does not belong in the German-Austrian camp. Even a treaty could not keep her there then. She may quarrel with Britain all she likes and bristle up her back at France but there is a sympathetic bond between the three that can never be quite replaced by Berlin.

Moreover the ease with which friendship was restored between London and Rome and the simplicity of the pact lead to the conclusion that the hot anger heretofore evidenced was more stimulated by pride than reason and that no occasion for a serious clash has existed so long as violent interference was not provoked because of the Ethiopian venture.

Both Italy and Germany have made gains in diplomatic channels, whatever they may be worth, and likewise in territory which appears valuable. But the German gains were not unnatural or to be unexpected and the value of the Italian gains as offset against their tremendous cost may turn out to be negligible.

The episode has the value however of indicating that the difference between friendship and hostility may be a pretty thin one unworthy of creating a substantial controversy between anyone.

MEETING ROYALTY

America thought highly of Ambassador Kennedy when the President sent him to London. His first important ruling by turning thumbs down upon the presentation of American women to royalty tends to heighten the good opinion already formed.

Certainly we send an ambassador to London for something more important than teaching American women abroad how to bow and scrape and curtsy in brand new bib and tucker so they may return home with fluttering heart and be pointed out as those rare objects that were introduced to the King and Queen while Their Majesties tried to smother yawns and wished the blooming gawking ceremony were over.

Those who know Mr. Kennedy intimately say that from the day of his appointment the whole notion of court presentation irked him as a distasteful piece of folderol. In his clear and quick-thinking way he concluded the practice had grown up merely because none of his predecessors had stamped his foot on it.

From every standpoint the ceremony has been so useless and absurd as regards Americans that those who understood it thoroughly and were offered its chances were generally glad to avoid it. We have enough natural born snobs among us without widening the circle with the hazard of an introduction at the royal court.

Mr. Kennedy gives good promise of a sensible future.

WHAT, NO MUNITION MAKERS?

Probably in all its history this Western Hemisphere never witnessed so cruel and bloody a struggle, toe to toe, as the war between Paraguay and Bolivia that lasted three years and desolated both countries of their young manhood.

The war was finally brought to a recess in 1935 with a promise by neutral nations to effect some just settlement of the Chaco, the land in dispute. Now Bolivia rejects all proposals advanced by the five power neutral commission to divide this region as "inequitable." Meanwhile the drums of war, softly muffled, have become barely audible. War veterans who came out of the last struggle alive are signifying their perfect willingness to take up arms again "in order to gain justice."

A careful and searching inquiry fails to reveal any munition makers in either Bolivia or Paraguay. How come?

Opinions Of Others

A SUNDAY THOUGHT
Christ was concerned with the health of the body because it materially affects the health of the soul. Yet it was through the soul that He was able to heal the body.

Thus did He demonstrate the interdependence of the one upon the other. Clean thoughts of the body produce fine bodies; clean and strong bodies help produce sound thinking, noble spiritual effort.

Hence, it is a duty we owe ourselves as individuals, as Christians, and as citizens in the community, to keep our bodies strong by eating proper foods, taking needed exercise and refraining from indulgence in those habits which tear down and destroy both the physical and spiritual attributes of strength.

In today's Golden Text we are told to "Take care not to drink wine or liquor, nor eat anything unclean." This warning was given to the mother of Samson, the strong man of Goly Writ, and also to the father for intoxicating liquor not only do grave injury to the drinkers but to their descendants down to the third or fourth generation.

No less injurious to mind and body is the habit of using drugs. In fact the narcotic habit

IT LOOKS as though Prexy Roosevelt's new attempt at priming the pump will probably get the approval of congress because there's pork for everybody except the Republicans included in it . . . which is good news for congressmen just now, with the matter of re-election coming up quite soon . . . I wonder, however, if certain checks will be withheld by the administration as they were in 1933 when, somehow, no money was forthcoming until just at a time when it would make the best impression . . . I won't repeat the "is there any water left in the well" theme, because it's hard to tell . . . obviously, people must not go hungry, but if the money goes to feed more hungry politicians, I'd say that it was wasted . . . besides, I can't get too cheered over the possibility of the whole proposition if it means that we wind up in the same hole in a couple of years . . . it's a rainy day as this is written anyway . . .

And what was emergency legislation by Mr. Roosevelt for the people in 1933 now seems to be emergency legislation by Mr. Roosevelt for Mr. Roosevelt in 1938.

MARIE COLLEEN

The baby buds climb up to view
The sweetest flower of all.
The trees push out their first green leaves.
The drowsy robins call.
The little squirrels run lightly where
The pussy-willows lean.
The world puts on her fairest gown
To greet Marie Colleen!

There have been other Springs, but none
So fresh and dewy sweet.
The dawn comes in with rosy steps
That match our Baby's feet;
And in our hearts the wells of hope
Run deep, for we have seen
High heaven in the trusting eyes
Of our Marie Colleen!

often leads to far more serious consequences in so far as the individual is concerned.

From the social standpoint these habits are considerably more dangerous today than at any other time in the world's history. The doped or drinking driver is a constant menace to life, limb and property on the highways. The worker in the factory who is not in complete possession of his senses may cause dozens of his fellow workers to be killed or injured. The pedestrian is continually risking his life on the street and highway. In truth, the new age of mechanical progress has no place for the man with paralyzed limbs and benumbed brain.

Not all our drunkards drink whiskey, beer or wine. Many become drunk on selfish thoughts, obsessed with the determination to acquire "things." Others grow drunk on egotism, pride, ambition, the insatiable desire for pleasure.—Winston-Salem Journal and Sentinel.

BIRD IN GILDED CAGE

A woman reports, to wit:
I have been taking irradiated yeast tablets for several months. I have had very satisfactory results and now find life worth living. Constipation has all left since taking them.

Also have been taking your iodine ration. Used to be stiff in the joints on descending stairs. Now that has cleared up and I'm as chipper as a sparrow. My hair has stopped falling after many months of worry about approaching baldness. I also give the family dog his nip of iodine—since you told about taking it with your dog Tony the Irish Terrier—and even a tiny bit to the bird in his gilded cage. The dog doesn't shed his hair all the time now, only at the proper time, and he has become lively and playful again. The bird sings all the time, even while he molts—they usually stop singing at that time.

Stop, stop, you're breaking my heart. Next thing we hear you'll be trying iodine on the fleas on the tail of the dog.

At that, it is not as well known as it should be that in the state of Michigan for many years sheep raising was a failure because of the poor growth of wool. Then the farmers began giving their sheep an iodine ration and then the sheep began giving the farmers a profitable wool crop.

Just where does the irradiated yeast come in? That is the most agreeable and most economical form of sunshine vitamin D; the dried pasteurized brewer's yeast is the richest natural source of vitamins B and G to begin with; irradiation of a selected strain of the yeast with ultraviolet rays of a certain wave-length converts ergosterol in the yeast into viosterol, which is vitamin D.

Vitamin D is essential for normal calcium and phosphorus metabolism in the body. Experimentally the hedgehog or woodchuck in hibernation snaps out of it regardless of the season or weather if given a good daily ration of vitamin D for a few days. Vitamin D controls the function of the thyroid and parathyroid glands. Vitamin D and G seem to promote normal growth of the nails, and persons with ridged brittle, or pitted nails for that iron and tea mixture you recommended some time ago for darkening gray hair. Seen And Heard In New York

BY GEORGE TUCKER

New York—It does seem at times that the copyright laws aren't very friendly toward successful authors. Whether they be poets, novelists, or biographers the titles of their books may be legally appropriated by anyone wishing to turn them to advantage.

I have in mind particularly the song publishers who seize any title that becomes popular. And they seldom say thank you. They look upon book lists as the granaries of their industry and when they find a title that suits their purpose they simply fit it to a tune.

Perhaps the most galling example of this was the kidnapping of Carl Cramer's title, "Stars Fell on Alabama." One night he turned on the radio and there it was; a sweet-voiced yodeler was fanning it from coast to coast. "This song had a lot of money which the publishers pocketed. It was Cramer who spent painstaking months making the book a success, but the song publishers, legally within their rights, took it without so much as a much obliged.

However, Cramer did get an unexpected laugh. One night he dropped by the Paramount theater, where Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians were on the bill. Letting his glance wander over the audience, Waring suddenly announced: "Ladies and gentlemen, I have a pleasant surprise for you. The man who wrote 'Stars Fell on Alabama' is here and I'm going to ask him to take a bow."

Cramer was made momentarily unhappy by this. He was fighting in his seat, wondering whether to stand up, when suddenly a nimble lad leaped out of the orchestra pit and cried: "Hello, everybody. I'm glad you like my song." There was a burst of applause, and many shouted requests that the number be played. The man who took the bow was Frankie Parker, one of Waring's musicians.

Cramer did strike one blow that may have some effect on this practice of appropriating other people's property. His annoyance was conveyed to the publishers, and when he came out with another book with a similarly beautiful title let it go by: "This was 'Listen For a Lonesome Drum' and to his knowledge at least four songs were hitched to this title. However, the publishers were afraid of it.

Incidentally, this author who comes from up-state, and who divides his free time between sulky racing and football, is hip deep in a new book about the Hudson river. He has been traveling up and down the Hudson, learning its secrets and farreaching out the history of its old wharves, its anti-war, its racing packets, its metamorphosis into a residence river.

"Come to think of it," says Carl, "I'm having a lot of fun. I think it's going to be my best book."

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—Senate hearings on the War Department appropriation bill indicate the United States army is on the defensive against getting too much money.

That any government department should back away from proffers of fattened budgets is almost more than this city of continual emergencies can endure. The shock is almost killing us. But put your ear down and listen.

Senator Copeland: Ought we to have some good modern 16-inch guns to protect New York harbor?

General Craig (chief of staff): The present strongest armament in the harbor defenses of Sandy Hook is considered adequate.

Copeland: As far as Fort Tilden (on Long Island) is concerned, are the conditions there satisfactory to you?

Craig: Yes, sir.

London Is Different
In turn, General Craig assured Senator Copeland about the harbor defenses of Boston, Portland, Me. and Philadelphia. They don't need any more money for coast guns than already is in sight, the general said.

He was more eager about anti-aircraft guns. For complete defense of strategic objectives within striking distance of a flying enemy, the army should have 408 anti-aircraft guns costing $40,000 each, Craig said.

But, said Copeland, London alone has 900 guns. Craig said conditions there were different. He explained that 34 regiments equipped with anti-plane guns could take care of both U. S. coasts. The guns could be moved about fast enough to meet any threat that the 34 regiments needed. The army has four in the regular service and ten in the national guard. The other 20 will be shaped in the regular army on an emergency basis, when the time comes.

Craig was willing to go slow, seeming content with the 141 anti-plane guns to be provided in the appropriation bill as it passed the house. Although he said the remaining 267 were "essential" for true defense. Before the committee finished however, it had doubled the $12,700,000 appropriation for anti-plane guns and equipment so the army can have 308 as fast as it can build them instead of only 141.

Thought for Today
Just so you won't worry so much, you should understand that it isn't necessary for an anti-aircraft gun to hit a plane to bring it down. Said Craig:

"A high-explosive shell bursting in the upper atmosphere has the same crushing effect that a depth bomb has upon a submarine."

If it explodes anywhere near the plane, it wrecks things. Craig would not be drawn into the argument as to whether a gun on the ground can cripple a plane before the plane bombs the gun on the ground. "I don't know," he said.

He did agree that the army's plans for anti-aircraft defense could be completed for something under the price of one 45,000-ton battleship.

Develop Copper Spray To Combat Leaf Spot
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison—One of the most important managerial problems facing cherry growers of Wisconsin, and especially the large orchardists in the Door county region, is the search for an effective fungicide for cherry leaf spot.

To this problem the University of Wisconsin has assigned two of its plant pathologists, C. W. Kellie and C. N. Clayton. They are now working on experiments which may determine whether some of the newer copper sprays are more satisfactory than that customarily used, Bordeaux mixture.

The scientists in a preliminary report suggested that the use of the new results in a larger fruit. In 1937 they found that the fruit was from 7 to 11 per cent larger. Whether the new sprays will control the disease effectively is not yet known definitely because disease conditions have not been severe enough during the last two years to put fungicides to a thorough test.

May Buy 6,760 Acres Of Sub-Marginal Land
Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

Washington—With $13,000 acres in Wisconsin designated as sub-marginal and not desirable for farm use, although possible for grazing, forests, or similar uses, the department of agriculture contemplates the purchase of 6,760 acres during the fiscal year ending June 30.

The government already has bought and paid for 128,362 acres in Wisconsin under the old programs of the Federal Emergency Relief administration, the Resettlement administration, the Farm Security administration. It has optioned a total of 230,736 acres.

The law provides that the government shall pay 25 per cent of the revenue from any such land to the county in lieu of taxes. Most of the land was already tax delinquent, however.

Equipment Stolen From Chilton WPA Tool Shed
Chilton—Thieves broke into the Calumet county WPA tool shed one evening this week and took equipment estimated to be worth about $100. Materials taken include three new axes, several shovels, rakes, pickaxes, three cross cut saws, rubber tired wheel barrow and numerous other small tools.

Most of it was the property of the federal government, and was being used on the park improvement project which is being carried on with the assistance of a WPA grant.

State Labor Aims Coincide With Roosevelt's Message

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau — Washington — Suggestions for expanding the government's "made-work" program, as recommended by the Wisconsin State Federation of Labor in a statement introduced into the congressional record by Congressman George J. Schneider, of Appleton, appear to coincide with aims of the president's recommendations and requests as stated in his message to the congress.

"We believe the PWA should be reestablished to meet the needs of those people who are not relieved recipients and are in need of employment opportunities," the federation's statement declared.

Discontinuance of the PWA was a grave mistake according to the federation, "as this program offered an opportunity for work which was necessary to be done under the normal conditions of the construction industry and allowed persons who were not as yet relieved recipients an opportunity to earn a livelihood and meet their obligations, among which oftentimes was the payment of taxes to the city, county, and state in which they were citizens."

More Desirable Method — Although the WPA offers a more desirable method of supplying aid for persons in need of relief than direct relief, and also allows much useful work to be done, the Wisconsin federation of labor believes it does not and cannot solve the unemployment problem.

"It continued on its present basis, it (the WPA) will create a more serious condition than we now have," the federation states.

The WPA should function so as not to interfere with the normal function of any department or industry, and should not interfere with the opportunities of workers who are not on relief to earn a livelihood for themselves and their families, the federation believes.

"It is our opinion that no project should be approved as a WPA project unless the registration of unemployed persons on relief under trade classifications required by such project, support the claim of the sponsor that there exists a need for such a project," it states.

"We believe that the best interests of all concerned could be best served if projects were submitted and approved on the basis of the types of workers available, rather than on a basis of the work which the sponsors of projects would like to have done and desire government financing."

Court To Ponder Testimony in WDA Decision Hearing

LaFollette Legal Staff Concludes Most Important Battle

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—The legal staff of the LaFollette state administration today rested after closing the most important and the most difficult legal battle of its 5-year occupancy of the state house while the Wisconsin supreme court began pondering whether it should uphold in its entirety the previous sweeping Wisconsin Development authority opinion which it reversed last week.

The best legal talent available to the LaFollette administration forces was marshalled in the supreme court last week in a rehearing of the WDA opinion handed down by the high court several months ago which threw out the crucial LaFollette electric power socialization bill, and which by inference implied a host of other state aids which have been paid without question for generations.

In its historic opinion, which LaFollette spokesmen described as a weapon to strengthen the position of bureaucracy, the court declared that the Wisconsin Development authority statute was unconstitutional because of an unlawful delegation of sovereign executive powers to an extra-governmental unit.

Supreme Importance
 The opinion is of supreme importance in current Wisconsin politics because the LaFollette forces had intended the power act to be the keystone of their argument in their bid for a return to office this year. Public ownership of electric power has long been one of the cardinal tenets of LaFollette Progressivism. According to Governor LaFollette the 1937 legislature at long last had put onto the statute books this traditional aim.

The supreme court, however, in one of the most important decisions in years, condemned the statute, and in language so sweeping that capitol officials immediately declared that one to promote appropriations to private organizations, veterans' groups, farmers' promotion organizations, patriotic associations, and others, must also be abolished.

The court granted a petition for a rehearing, and the courtroom was crowded while opposing attorneys battled over the issue. Eight months' briefs were offered on behalf of the state and the private organizations whose appropriations were held up at the state treasury because of the earlier opinion.

Also involved in the court's pending decision is the fate of the Wisconsin Agricultural authority, modeled along the same lines as the power act. Both were created by public corporations to operate with public funds, one to promote power socialization, the second to promote the marketing of Wisconsin's agricultural produce.

Miss Erma Gunderson, teacher at the Pleasant Hill school, reports the following pupils to have had a perfect attendance record for March: Nora Wilkinson, Kathryn Wilkinson, Dorothy Olson, Ileen Burgen, Selma Hammond, and James Mc Coy. Honor roll students for the fifth six weeks are: Nora Wilkinson, and James Mc Coy.

Among these fine boys who attended the mother and daughter banquet held at the high school in Shiocton Tuesday evening were Mrs. Emil Falk and daughter La Voda, Mrs. Joel Poole and daughter Lorraine, Misses Dorothy and Alice Bergsbaken, Maxine Webb and Dorothy Leeman.

Plans are Completed for Junior Prom at Manawa

Manawa—Velda Handrich, 15-year-old daughter of Assemblyman and Mrs. Alvin A. Handrich, has been chosen queen of the annual junior prom of Manawa High school by Mark Fitzgerald, junior class president, and a Miss Handrich, honor student and member of the debate team, and her partner will lead the grand march at the event to be held in the gymnasium next Thursday evening, April 21. Second in line will be Ruth O'Donnell and Lester Sabrowsky, senior class president.

The decorative scheme this year will consist of a fair-land of butterflies. The ceiling of the gym will be hung with about 100 butterflies having a wing spread of seven inches. They will be in the pastel shades of tints, producing a riot of spring colors. Four panels will be placed along each side wall and two at the end opposite the stage. These panels will depict flower and butterfly designs in harmonizing colors on a white background. Each of the panels has been hand painted and is original in design.

The stage will be hung with butterflies in keeping with the general decorations. The lower floor corridor will be transformed into a small lounge which will provide additional seating space for prom visitors between dances. Soft lights and colorful furniture will add to the general decorativeness.

Members of the committee in charge of decorations include Margaret Jensen, chairman, Velda Handrich, Lola Patton, Eunice Fenske, Corwin Rand, and Arnold Thomack. The work has been going forward under the direction of Earl Carl Koch, junior class advisor. The junior chairman in charge of the lunch room is Eunice Fenske. The committee in charge of this department is composed of Jone Dain, Isla Hetzel, and Lorraine Forsythe. Their supervisor is Miss Helen Heuer, home economics instructor.

BOOK REVIEW

'The Summing Up' is Different From Maugham's Usual Efforts

By Jean Wiley Thickens

"THE SUMMING UP"

By Somerset Maugham

"The Summing Up" is not a biography, so our author assures us. Neither is it a memoir, though certain parts of the book might qualify under those various heads. To the reader who has become accustomed to the Somerset Maugham of "The Painted Veil," "The Narrow Corner," or to such ultra-sophisticated and bitterly cynical dramas as "The Letter" or "The Constant Wife," it is difficult to believe that this latest author is responsible for this latest book.

Somewhere in this remarkable volume the author states that in his twenties his critics said he was brutal, at thirty he was said to be flippant, in his forties they said he was cynical, in his fifties that he was at last competent, and now in his sixties they declare him only superficial. All of which proves that it is salutary for an author to be no more affected by praise than by censure.

Judging from the meagre personal facts vouchsafed by Mr. Maugham it is obvious to the reader why so much of his work is in the cynical, disillusioned vein. He was left an orphan when a very young boy, and a childless, middle-aged uncle, who resented his presence in the house, raised the lonely child. He was sent away to a large boarding school at eleven. Here his small stature, his bad stammer and his lack of assurance made him the natural butt of the older and more self-assured lads. Until he had reached full maturity and a certain amount of literary fame, women had little time for him and his too contributed to his inferiority complex. His years as a medical student gave him little inspiration and he was not sorry to give up the life for that of a writer.

Finest Novel

Probably Somerset Maugham's finest novel is "Of Human Bondage" which he tells us in "The Summing Up" was more or less autobiographical, and as such is of great value to those who would penetrate beneath the outer crust of polish and sophistication which he learned to assume, when fame came to him. Beneath that outer veneer the rather timid, and very sensitive little boy can still be discerned.

Now, at the close of an immensely successful literary career, Mr. Maugham debates with himself as to whether it is anything but futillity to write plays and novels, for he is convinced that the days of the prose drama are numbered and the present day novel is almost as ephemeral as a news-sheet. But on the other hand, "says the author, "the only free man is an artist (whether painter, writer or musician) for the unwhippersnaps that befalls him, his sins, disappointments, unrequited loves, his physical and illnesses all are transmuted into material to further his artistic career, and so he is freed of their weight.

Write on Religion

One of the first chapters in the book is the one devoted to religion. "When a medical student," says Mr. Maugham, "they told me that medicine was a machine subject to mechanical laws, and when the machine ran down that was the end of him." He watched men die at the hospitals and these deaths seemed to confirm what the medical text books taught. His mental and spiritual struggles to find Truth and Order in this chaotic universe led him far afield. He read prodigiously.

anthems by the choir. The instrumental music will use both organ and piano. The pastor will preach on the theme: "Epilogue to Calvary." At St. Peter Lutheran church the Easter Sunday communion service in English will be at 8:30, and the German festival service at 10:15. Easter Monday German services will be at 10:15.

Mass at the Weyauwega Catholic church on Easter Sunday will be at 10 o'clock. There will be an Easter dance at Gerold hall, Monday. It is sponsored by Eric Arndt post No. 176 of the American Legion.

Howard Lauer returned home Friday from the Veterans administration hospital in Milwaukee where he has been receiving treatments for his eye.

Students of the Weyauwega grades and high school are having a vacation from April 14 to 19.

ously, philosophy, various religions, and the ancient mystics. Experience has shown that the prevalence of a belief does not necessarily guarantee its truth. He saw men as playthings of nature, subject to the forces of earthquake, flood, famine and plague. Many times he asked himself what was the meaning of a thing if one could not believe in a generous God and immortality. Aristotle has said that "the end of human activity is right action," and though that perhaps may be a Pagan belief, it is not so far removed from all from Christianity's Golden Rule. With this assurance he was forced to be content, still feeling an intense gratitude to some beneficent Power for what happiness and fame had come to him during a long life.

Mr. Maugham says that he looks forward to old age without dismay. To be sure the pleasures of youth and maturity will be denied him. "But," says the author "the beauty of the morning and the radiance of one's own good, still it would be a silly person who drew the curtains in order to shut out the tranquility of evening."

Mr. Maugham tries to convince us that he cannot accept the tenets of religion as they are taught to day, but one who reads his book thoughtfully can not fail to realize that he has formulated a belief which is perhaps not orthodox but still the essence of simple Christianity as it was taught by the first Great Disciple two thousand years ago.

Quality of Caviar Will be Improved In State This Year

Wisconsin Considered One Of Most Important Producers of Delicacy

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Philip Kremer, food inspector for the state department of agriculture and markets, has completed an extensive inspection of commercial fishing establishments in the eastern Wisconsin fishery section which will result in the production of better quality of caviar by those fishermen, the department announced this week.

Although few people are aware of it, Wisconsin is one of America's most important producers of caviar, the traditional delicacy of royal and aristocratic dining tables. Production of caviar, which is fish eggs or roe, is one of the important units of the big commercial fishing industry of the state, and Wisconsin fishermen produce more of the commodity than any others on the Great Lakes, according to the department of markets.

Eastern Markets

Fish eggs are harvested and sold in the Eastern markets by fishermen at Port Washington, Sheboygan, and two Rivers, Sturgeon Bay, Ellison Bay, Washington, Island, Algoma and Kewaunee. Most of the roe comes from the chub, which is itself one of the most important food species taken from Lake Michigan.

Although exact statistics are not available, Kremer estimates that the production of caviar in Wisconsin each year runs hundreds of thousands of pounds. Fishermen sell the raw eggs at a price ranging from 4 to 7 cents a pound to Eastern processing houses, which in turn put the caviar on the market at an average price of 80 cents a pound.

The only Wisconsin firm which markets finished caviar is Smith Brothers at Port Washington, one of the most important commercial fishing establishments on Lake Michigan.

The markets department said this week that its inspectors have investigated methods of preparing caviar in the fishing plants, and recommended the adoption of improved production methods and of separating the fish roe.

Marinette Plant to be Reopened Within 10 Days

'Y' to Celebrate 2 Anniversaries At Annual Dinner

1st Organization Founded In 1888, Present One in 1913

The fiftieth anniversary of the organization of the Young Men's Christian Association in Appleton and the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the present "Y" both will be celebrated at the annual dinner Thursday night, April 21, at which E. S. Turner, general secretary of the "Y" in the Philippines, will be the principal speaker.

F. J. Harwood, who is still a member of the board of directors, was president of the first Y. M. C. A. which was formed in Appleton in 1888. Howard W. Kellogg was general secretary.

The first rooms were at 112 E. College avenue over Pardee's grocery store, a location now occupied by the Wisconsin Michigan Power company. The "Y" quarters later were moved to 130 E. College avenue where larger accommodations were available, and the membership increased.

April 1, 1888, the old Congregational church, which stood where the library and city hall now are located, was purchased by the association. This building remained the "Y" center under the secretaryship of E. A. Prouty until March 29, 1893, when it was destroyed by fire.

Piano Hits Program
 The financial panic of that same year destroyed hope of erecting a new building and temporary work was continued in the second floor of the Commercial bank, site of the Irving Zueke building, until Dec. 31, 1893, when the board of directors was forced to abandon the program.

Interest in the revival of the association and encouragement for the launching of a building program were aroused when it became known that Dr. J. T. Reeve in his will agreed to donate $500 towards the purchase of land south of the library building, provided the city or citizens would give a like amount. The city consented to appropriate $500, but asked the citizens to raise another $500. With these three sums as a start, the lot at the northwest corner of Oneida and Lawrence streets was finally purchased at a cost of $10,000.

Offer $25,000
 State "Y" secretary F. E. Anderson learned in 1912 that Mr. and Mrs. Judson G. Rosebush of Appleton offered to donate $25,000 if a suitable building for the Young Men's Christian association could be erected and equipped in this city, costing not less than $100,000. Later another adjacent lot was obtained so that a building large enough to fill the community's needs should be erected.

F. J. Harwood was elected president of the newly organized board of directors on May 3, 1913. Judson G. Rosebush, vice president; J. A. Wood, secretary; and A. F. Tuttle, treasurer.

On Nov. 1 of that year it was announced that $100,000 had been raised for the new building and equipment in a drive of only seven days directed by M. C. Williams, international secretary, and Anderson, state secretary.

First Drive Leaders

The executive committee for the $100,000 drive was composed of F. J. Harwood, W. O. D. S. Runkles, J. A. Smith, George W. Jones, James A. Wagg, and S. R. Wagg. James A. Wood was chairman of the citizens committee.

Captains in the original drive were John F. Voge, R. E. Carncross, E. E. Dunn, Dr. M. J. Sandborn, George R. Wettengel, Dr. G. E. Johnston, Robert N. Filbey, Frank P. Young, Dr. G. H. Holliday, John Hettinger, A. A. Wettengel, A. R. Eads, Louis Bonini, Joseph Koffelt, Dr. H. A. Pratt, O. D. S. Runkles, G. E. Buchanan, John H. Neller, George Packard, and B. F. Goodrich.

On March 25, 1914, the board of directors authorized the letting of contracts, all of which went to local firms, and about a month later ground was broken for the building. It was completed and open for use August 2, 1915. The fifth floor was added two years later and in 1923 the new addition over the swimming pool was constructed.

The American Legion auxiliary will hold a meeting on Wednesday evening when plans will be made for the spring conference to be held here in May.

'Y' TO OBSERVE SILVER, GOLDEN JUBILEES

Two important anniversaries will be celebrated in the Y.M.C.A. building, pictured above, at a dinner meeting Thursday night. One will mark the fiftieth year of the organization of the Young Men's Christian Association in Appleton and the other the twenty-fifth year since the founding of the present "Y."

At the right is F. J. Harwood, who was president of the first Y.M.C.A. in Appleton, organized in 1888. The panic of 1893 caused dissolution of the "Y" and it was not reorganized until 1913, with Mr. Harwood as president. He now is a member of the board of directors and will be honored at the annual meeting Thursday night.

Added Fund Asked In Fight to End Bang's Disease

Badger Delegation in Congress United in House Battle

Washington—(P-Wis.) Party lines were brushed aside this week by Wisconsin's house congressional delegation, which united in a temporarily successful attempt to increase the appropriation for Bang's disease control.

Representative Withrow (P-Wis.) proposed an amendment to the agriculture appropriation bill boosting from $1,603,000 to $5,403,000 the sum recommended for eradicating Bang's disease.

This, with unexpended balances, would increase the total to $12,700,000 for that work instead of $8,900,000.

After debate in which Wisconsin members vigorously upheld the amendment the house, in committee of the whole voted 58 to 25 for the larger appropriation.

"If we do not make an adequate appropriation," Withrow said, "it will mean that the efforts we have thus far made and the moneys we have thus far spent will be almost a total loss because if this program is neglected, the percentage of reactors will increase from year to year and we shall lose every single solitary cent we have invested."

Speaks for Farmer
"We have embarked on a program of helping business," Withrow declared. "We will in a short time embark on a program of pouring money out to the railroads. I think in all fairness we ought to try to help the farmers of the United States with some respect in regard to this appropriation."

Representative Reilly (D-Wis.) told the house "Bang's disease is a much more serious threat to the dairy industry of the country than tuberculosis ever was."

"The appropriation should be raised and not lowered because the program to eradicate Bang's disease from the dairy herds of the country is just now getting underway," Reilly added.

"The dairy farmers of the country have received little in the agricultural bills passed by congress in the past few years."

"No Time for Delay"
"This is no time for delay or for slowing down this program if the dairy farmers of the country are going to be prepared to maintain the kind of milk that the cities of the future are going to demand. In a few years the big cities of the country, and many of the smaller cities also, are going to bar all milk that does not come from Bang's-free herds."

"It is all right for congress to do everything possible to balance the budget, but a great program to eradicate disease from dairy herds to protect the health of the country should not be sacrificed to reduce the nation's budget."

Representative Hull (P-Wis.) declared he did "not like the kind of economy that commences in the barnyards and ends at the navy yards." He referred to the administration's billion dollar naval building program.

"We have been appropriating hundreds of millions of dollars for war preparations," Hull continued. "If we can expend all those sums with the idea of building up our forces to engage in a war at some future date, certainly we ought to aid farmers who are endeavoring to protect the health of the American people, and protect the health of the American herds, by the eradication of Bang's disease."

Wisconsin has expended from the state treasury from $25,000,000 to $26,000,000 in the eradication of tuberculosis and Bang's disease in past years. The farmers of Wisconsin have had over $100,000,000 in losses on their livestock in eradicating these same diseases over a long term of years.

"Now we need $16,000,000. Give us at least $12,000,000 and let us begin to start somewhere else than the barnyard for a little while."

Representative Schneider (P-Wis.) declared his state had used all the money it was entitled to and could have used more.

"Under the amount of the appropriation proposed here it would only have $311,000 and certainly the program must break down if this item is to remain the same as proposed in the bill," he said.

Political Picture

Senator Duffy's formal announcement of his candidacy for reelection quickened interest in the Wisconsin political outlook.

Some thought it would spur Representative Bollau (P-Wis.) to an early declaration of his political plans but he continued to keep his own counsel. Bollau had said that he will decide before congress adjourns whether to oppose Duffy.

Discussing President Roosevelt's relief message, Bollau conceded $1,250,000,000 for WPA might be enough for the seven months for which it is proposed if the remainder of the program got underway without delay. By this he meant WPA, small business aid, and other monetary relief plans.

Like a few others from the mid-west, however, he speculated on whether $2,000,000,000 would be necessary for WPA.

Representative Sauthoff (P-Wis.) thinks the billion and a quarter probably would suffice.

"The main obstacle," he says, "to our going ahead is fear—fear by the farmer, worker, and small business man. This will have a very wholesome effect in dispelling such fears. If the Canadian tariffs are not further reduced on dairy products, I think Wisconsin will stage a rapid recovery."

"If the duties are further reduced then Wisconsin is face to face with protracted hard times."

New Organization Seeks to Operate Links at Kaukauna

Committee Gets 30 Members, Expects to Double Roster Soon

Kaukauna—A new organization to take over the assets of the Kaukauna Golf club, to be known as the Fox River Valley Golf club, is now being formed. It is hoped to get enough members and funds to enable the club to operate this summer.

The committee has so far secured about 30 members and expects to double the number by the first of next week. Under the new plans it is possible to secure many younger members in the club, as memberships are now being sold for $25, compared to the old price of $100.

The new organization will benefit from the $9,000 already spent for improvements on the course and will not be faced with the heavy construction cost which handicapped the club in the past, according to the committee. An easy payment plan has been adopted whereby anyone interested in golf can become a member.

With the exception of two of the depression years the club has paid its current obligations in full each year and also paid a small amount in a body at the end of the year. With construction and equipment items paid off, the committee believes that little difficulty will be experienced in operating the club successfully as a membership course.

Appleton Churches Will Celebrate Easter Sunday With Variety of Services

Joyful and triumphant bells and music on Easter morning will herald the resurrection of Jesus Christ and proclaim His victory over the grave as Christians throughout the world emerge from the penitential period of lent and particularly the mournful days of Passion Week. Appleton churches will resound with glad Alleluias as choirs sing out their exultant hymns of Easter-tide, and altars will bloom with Easter lilies and other flowers.

Several of the Protestant churches are planning sunrise services early Easter morning, prominent among them being the service sponsored by City-Wide Young People's council at 6:30 Sunday morning at Emmanuel Evangelical church. Dr. Harry C. Culver, pastor of First Methodist Episcopal church, will preach the sermon and there will be special music. Other sunrise services will be held at 6:30 at all Saints Episcopal church, a choral holy communion service; 6 o'clock at St. Paul Lutheran church with the Rev. F. M. Brandt, pastor, preaching on "The Stone is Rolled Away"; 6 o'clock at St. Matthew Lutheran church with a sermon, "Rolling Away the Stone" by the Rev. Philip Froehke, pastor; and 6 o'clock at First English Lutheran church with the Rev. F. C. Reuter speaking on "Resurrection Power."

A sunrise prayer meeting will be held at 6 o'clock Sunday morning at New Appleton tabernacle. Pageant, Play
An Easter pageant, "The Dawning," by Lyman R. Bayard will be presented at 7:30 Sunday evening at First Methodist Episcopal church. There will be an Easter Monday service at 10:15 Monday morning at which Pastor Sauer will preach.

A vesper baptismal service will be held at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon at First Baptist church. At the morning worship service at 11 o'clock, the Rev. R. H. ## Man Who Lost Memory Identifies Himself Milwaukee—(P-Wis.) A man who told police two days ago he had lost his memory identified himself last night as Edward Weber, 41, Chicago commercial artist.

He told Detective Ferdinand Wendler he could not remember all the incidents of his life but recalled that his father, Ernest, and other relatives live at Indianapolis. Police said Werner will remain at the hospital until his father arrives here. The man told Detective Wendler he still had no idea why he went to Sheboygan last week or came to Milwaukee later.

112 Loads of Rubbish Collected This Week

A total of 112 loads of rubbish was collected this week in the second district, more than double the number of loads collected last month in the same district. The increase is attributed to the annual spring cleanup of yards and tree-trimming plus usual rubbish.

MILK

But it seemed like milk bottles never would until the advent of the new famous Cream Top Bottle. What an improvement!

Cream Top Bottles make it possible for the housewife to pour off cream so thick it will whip stiff.

Of course it takes good, rich milk to fill these bottles so they will meet such a test day after day. But that's another improvement! It gives you a daily guarantee of the quality of the milk we deliver to you.

There's just one thing this bottle has in common with the old fashioned bottle. When you give its good-old-fashioned milk to the children, the bottle should be turned upside down several times — to be sure the cream is evenly distributed.

You'll like this rich milk — this cream that whips — this modern service. Won't you try it?

Defeats Declarer By Hoax

BY ELY CULBERTSON
"Dear Mr. Culbertson: The enclosed hand, which was played in a rubber match the other night, just goes to show what a hoax play on the part of the declarer may do to a guy who apparently has a lay-down for a grand slam. I sat South. The following was the deal:

"The bidding:
North East South West

4 spades Pass 4 no trump Pass
5 no trump Pass 6 spades Pass
7 spades Pass Pass Pass

"West opened the heart six. Dummy's ace won and East played the deuce. The hand looked like a cinch even with a bad diamond break, so to explore the diamond situation before leading a trump I led the ace from the dummy. East, without a moment's hesitation, dropped the queen. Seeing no reason for this, unless the queen were a single, I led one of dummy's small clubs, winning with the ace. I then cashed the club king. East played the deuce and then the four. Then I made the error that was my own downfall. I figured that East had made clubs, for if West had held the Q-10-9 it would have been his best opening lead to have led the queen. Anyhow, I led the club eight and ruffed with the trump six. East overruled and I was set.

"Sure, I know I should have ruffed a heart at trick four, and the diamonds could have been set up. The opponents hoodwinked me. What do you think?

Yours truly,
"L. A. F. Salisbury, Jr. C."

I am almost sorry that my correspondent asked "what do you think?" Because I hate to tell him! It is all very well for him to moan that he was hoaxed, or hoodwinked, by the declarer. In actual fact, it can only be said that he hoaxed himself. When East threw the queen of diamonds on the ace there was utter nonsense for declarer's fight. Why not then lead a low diamond and put East's honesty to the test? Suppose that East did fail to follow suit. How could that harm declarer? If he ruffed declarer easily could overruff and base his subsequent play on knowledge of the diamond distribution rather than on fear. Obviously the moment both defenders followed to the second diamond trick declarer's "dilemma" would be resolved. The diamond break then could be no worse than 4-2 and one more ruff would establish the entire suit. Thus after duffing the deuce of diamonds declarer would merely lay down the spade ace, then overtake the jack. Another low diamond lead and ruff with the king would "set the dummy." The lead of South's last spade to dummy and subsequent drawing of opponent's trumps would be child's play.

Without meaning to "rub things in" I am afraid that the defenders had very little to do with the defeat of this contract.

Fried Chicken
Cut chicken into serving pieces and wash well in cold water. Chill until time for dinner preparation. Place flour and seasonings in a paper sack. Add chicken and shake the bag until the chicken is well coated. Brown quickly in fat and butter which have been heated in a frying pan. Cover and let cook for 25 minutes — until chicken is very tender when it is tested with a fork.

Ambrosia Pie
1 baked pie crust
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons grated lemon rind
1-3 cup cold water
1 cup mashed bananas
1-3 cup granulated sugar
1 cup orange juice
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Soak gelatin for five minutes in the cold water. Dissolve over boiling water. Add bananas, juices, salt, rinds and yolks. Cook for two minutes in a double boiler. Stir thoroughly. Add sugar and cool. Fold in egg whites and pour into crust. Chill until firm. Serve plain or covered with whipped cream.

If sheets are hung on the line dripping wet the weight of the water pulls them down and removes most of the wrinkles. They may then be folded neatly without ironing when dry.

Happiness Is Important To Growth of Children

BY ANGELO PATRI

A child has to feel he "belongs" if he is to be happy. Happiness is important in itself, but it is more important in its influences on health, growth and development of children. A happy child will grow faster and in better quality than the unhappy one. It is not given to the children to be always happy, but some share of happiness certainly is indicated for all. If a child can feel he belongs he will be happy enough to carry on during the off-times every child knows, but if he feels he does not belong he is in a sad way.

Childhood is democratic. Left to itself it will accept both sides of the track without reservation. But grown people think that there is an ad- vantage in belonging to the right side and soon teach that idea to the children, and then somebody is not going to belong, which means that some child is going to be hurt.

I know that it is impossible in this family world to make everybody happy, so my idea about it is to make everybody, especially when they are children, as happy as possible. Let them belong sometime, somewhere, during the day; let them feel themselves adequate in some field, and they will get along. Teacher can help this along in school, and mother can help by encouraging and emphasizing good points at home.

When the teacher smiles down at a timid little girl and says, "May I use your pencil, please, Lillian?" I've broken the point off mine; she gives shivering Lillian a thrill that quite wipes out the ache of the snub she received on the playground. She will have that honor- pencil shining and sharp, ready on her desk next day in the hope of luxuriating in that royal feeling once again. Such are the little things that help a child through the day.

When a little boy comes home looking downcast, when even a jelly doughnut fails to break the gloom, mother can dispel it with a story of how grandfather led the charge, or how Uncle Dan killed the black bear and saved the girl afterward married from his claws; or how when he gets to college he will be a team captain, or a cheer leader or an honor student

Women Look Their Best On Easter

BY ELSIE PIERCE

In every walk of life we have our pace setters. And in beauty as in everything else there are the women whom other women follow. Easter Sunday is at least one day in the year when practically every woman looks her best. Yet even then there are those who will lead the parade. They are not necessarily those who are flashily dressed. On the contrary, those who over-dress may draw attention, but they do not win admiration. And what women of good taste want attention of the unfavorable kind?

Beautifully Turned Out
The pace setters are invariably those who are beautifully turned out, faultlessly groomed. They are women who are meticulous in their attention to detail. From head to toe every item of the toilette receives its full share of care. The hair is becomingly but practically arranged so that it is not as difficult as it seems to keep every hair in place. The skin is kept flawless and make-up applied deftly and with subtle flattery. The figure is controlled. Hands are soft and smooth and white and nails always appear to be freshly manicured. Such a woman is a creature of good personal habits and not the least of these habits is "good grooming."

The pace setters are always women of good taste. Some maintain that they are blessed with this quality. I honestly feel that good taste is the result of cultivation. They have a flair for color, a sense of style, they know their lines, their knowledge of what is appropriate to an occasion never fails them. All of this helps them to buy wisely, to plan, to weed out the fad and flash-in-the-pan fashions and stick to sane styles, particularly those most flattering to them. The pace setter is usually one who dresses quietly, and even the complements she receives are hushed a bit of awe in them. Most of all, she holds herself proudly for her posture is perfect. She does not need to depend upon a new costume to make her pull up, instinctively. She always carries herself regally and always looks as though she were in new costume.

Resolve to be a pace setter. And — a happy Easter to you!

My bulletin "Beauty Schedule" may help you to plan in your pace-setting campaign. Send self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope for it.

whose name will be read out at Commencement by the Governor. Charged with fresh hope and renewed in faith he will begin again. Even if the fellows did leave him out of the game he will show them something one of these days. That feeling will help him to know he "belongs."

No child can feel outcast if his family stand by him and encourage him to know that he belongs to a worth-while organization headed by father and mother. No school child will feel himself friendless as long as the teacher singles him out for a smile and a word of praise. But, of course, what is needed is the feeling of belonging to the immediate circle of schoolmates. That is the best tonic of all.

Parents can help that ahead by trying to live in a community that welcomes the family, whose standards are close to their own, whose ways they understand. Not that too much of a pattern is not stifling. It is, but that there is a fundamental spirit of belonging in the group, varied as it may otherwise be. But in any case, try to make a child feel he "belongs" sometime, somewhere, during his day.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

Uncle Ray's Corner

A Little Saturday Talk

With Easter close at hand, we look forward to a day which ranks among the important feasts of the year.

The word "Easter" came from the name of a goddess of German tribes of olden Europe. She was the goddess of spring, and was called "Eoster" or "Oster." The Anglo-Saxon tribes which entered Britain 1,500 years ago called her "Easter." In honor of this fair goddess, the month of April was called Easter-month.

Last year, Easter came on March 28, but this year it comes 20 days later. Do you know why? The reason goes back to early Christian times. The church fathers decided that the feast should come on "the first Sunday after the first full moon on or after March 21." Spring usually commences on March 21.

Easter, as a Christian feast, is observed in accord with the doctrine of the resurrection of Christ from the dead. Coming when springtime blesses the northern hemisphere, it fits in with the budding of leaves and the coming of blossoms, in short with the springing up of new life in the most thickly settled parts of the earth.

The moon makes regular journeys around the earth, but these do not last quite a month. Because of that fact, the full moon does not appear at the same monthly date each year.

According to the church rules, Easter cannot come earlier than March 22 or later than April 25. Next year, the date will be April 9.

At one time, the Easter feast lasted for eight days. The feasting was cut down to three days a few centuries later, then to two days, and finally to a single day. There was an old idea in England that the sun "danced" on Easter morning. People would get up at sunrise, and would look at the sun as it was mirrored in a lake or pool. The light in the water did seem to dance, but you can guess that the dancing was due to ripples.

Good Taste Today
By Emily Post

"WHAT SHALL I WEAR?"

Dear Mrs. Post: I have to get a new dress for the occasion of our Silver Wedding anniversary. We are going to be at home in the evening to all our friends. People in our community don't wear really formal evening clothes and, of course, they won't on this occasion either. But I feel that I would like to have something a little special. Also I wonder whether grey would be nice because it's a silver anniversary, or whether this would perhaps be carrying preparation to the extreme?

Answer: No, I think a grey dress would be lovely and most suitable. If I were you I would, of course, choose one that will be useful afterward. A grey crepe de chine or georgette dress is lovely and useful on almost any occasion, whereas a very elaborate dress of silver brocade in a community where such a dress is not particularly suitable, would be, I agree with you, very inappropriate. Or, perhaps you might prefer a material other than crepe although I think the satin crepe materials are not as useful as the dull ones.

Dear Mrs. Post: Is there a rule which says hostesses should dress more elaborately for their parties than the guests in all probability? So often I go to parties and find that the other guests are dressed as I am but that the hostess is a good deal more dressed.

Answer: A hostess should be less elaborately dressed than her guests but this might be confusing inasmuch as she is allowed clothes that are rather more unconventional than those which are worn by the other guests who come to her house. Very informally, for instance, a hostess sometimes wears dinner pajamas, or she may wear one of the rather fantastic current variations of the tea gown, which she would not wear to the house of someone else. At a party that could in any way be called formal, the hostess would dress the same as any one else, but she would not wear her very best dress. In other words, if she had one dress that was much better than any of the others, she would wear it in compliment to a friend at her party rather than at her own.

Dear Mrs. Post: Do the same rules for dressing at the opera, apply to a concert—either philharmonic orchestra or an individual artist?

Answer: One is expected to wear evening dress although it is not necessary that the men wear tails and the women's dresses are not quite as elaborate as they are at the opera.

Tomato seedlings that have been planted in the house should now be transplanted into a cold frame. Plant seedlings about four inches apart.

Do not let hardwood floors get badly worn before having them polished. A little polish on the worn places each week keeps floors always looking well.

Kerosene will quickly remove paint or varnish from the hands. Pour a little onto a cloth and rub over the hands.

To clean embossed brass, make a mixture of 1 ounce of oxalic acid (poison) and 1 pint of soda water. Apply the mixture to the brass with a soft brush and polish with chamomile.

Old Gardener Says:

THE OLD GARDENER SAYS:
A new columbine, which is entirely distinctive in appearance, is being offered this season and seems likely to become very popular with garden makers. This columbine does not have the spurs characteristic of most kinds. In fact the flowers more nearly resemble those of the clematis than those of familiar columbine, or to use the scientific name, Aquilegia about 18 inches high, is free flowering and very attractive. The colors range through all the pastel shades. This aquilegia is easily grown from seed.

Lending Money to Right Man Is Good Investment

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—I have been engaged to a man for a few years, but owing to family misfortunes and a nervous breakdown of my fiancé we have not been able to marry. Now he has finally landed a fairly good position, with fine prospects, and is making enough to take care of both of us. He didn't have to pay the bills incurred by his mother's last illness. I am not a young girl. I love this man, and I am tired of waiting. Do you think I would be justified in giving him money of my own to pay these bills, with the proviso that we get married right away? With both of our salaries we could get along nicely and save considerable for a rainy day. I would still have a little nest egg left if I did help him out, but I disapprove of giving a man money, as I think it tends to weaken him morally. What do you think?
HAZEL.

Answer:
If you love the man at all and think him worth marrying, I don't see why you are not willing to risk a few dollars on him. If he were a wastrel, a drunkard, a gambler, or just plain no-account, you might well hesitate to lend him the money to pay off his debts, but in his case the obligations are the tragic necessary ones that we inevitably incur when there is sickness and death in our families.

It seems to me that this young man is a good investment, even from a financial point of view. There is no doubt that by relieving his mind of the pressure of worry occasioned by his debts and by making him a comfortable home you will increase his earning capacity. It has been definitely established that happy people are far more likely to be successful than unhappy ones. And this says nothing of the glow of gratitude it will bring to his heart because of your generous action.

As a general proposition it is true that the woman who lends money to a man usually loses her man and her money too, but there are a million exceptions to this rule. Very often a man who has industry and energy and initiative needs just a little money to help him get a start. Very often a man is sick and needs the medical attention he cannot afford. Very often a man needs only some new clothes to start him on the up and up. It all depends on the man whether you help him or ruin him by giving him money.

If a man is a dreamer full of vague schemes for making millions, if he is a sit-downer who waits for opportunity to knock him over; if he is a chronic borrower, he is a poor risk. But, if he has any of the earmarks of the go-getter, he is a good bet.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am a widower of 57, engaged to be married to a woman who is fine in many ways, but she talks too much, tells all of her business and mine and my children's to any one who will listen. Also, she has a 15-year-old daughter who is the talk of the town with her bold ways, her freshness and her impudence. Her mother sees no fault in her and gives her fine clothes, movie money and everything she wants. That girl and I will not get along together, so I have told the woman that I don't want to go on with the wedding, but she refuses to let me off and has sent out the invitations to it. What shall I do? I want to do the right thing.
MR. CANT.

Answer:
Well, Mr. Cant, I should advise you to emulate the tactics of a mule—just balk on the safe side of the altar. Don't let the woman drag you to it. Of course, the lady who wants to go to town, as the slang phrase runs, with you, is spoiled brat will use all of the time-honored methods that drivers employ to get the mule that has taken its stand to move. She will build a fire under you, twist your ears and belabor you with her tongue, but it will be all in vain if you follow the intelligent animal's example and just stay put until the spirit moves you to go.

A little-tale wife will keep you always in hot water and an extravagant one will keep you broke. And a saucy mix of an adolescent girl will fight with your children and keep your house in a turmoil. So you will be well advised to avoid getting into such a mess. It takes nerve to stand off a widow who is determined to marry you, but are you a mouse or a man?

THE STORY SO FAR: Loving someone else, gently bred Judith Goodloe married Reuben Oliver—self-made man and outsider—for his money, only to discover that his fortune is lost. But Judith's code insists that she stick to her marriage and follow her husband to a mining town, Fordney's Gulch, Nevada. Unfitted for poverty, there are times she hates Reuben bitterly, and he knows it. It is Thanksgiving, with nothing to be thankful for.

Chapter 23
ONLY HALF ALIVE

A good quarrel would have cleared the atmosphere but they were so careful, so very careful to avoid even a remote hint of one. Perhaps neither could have told why they feared an eruption even while they longed for one that would rock the earth.

"Hurry and change, Reuben," Judith filled a bud vase with water, put the geranium in it and placed it in the center of the small table richly laid with damask, silver, crystal, "I'll keep the things warm until you're ready."

Despite their combined efforts it was not a festive meal. The disheartened turkey was quite tasteless from too long hours spent in a steamer. The cranberry jelly was leathery. The potatoes soggy—

While they were pretending to enjoy themselves Mrs. Kraus came bustling in with a platter of piping hot hunk of cooked turkey. The skin was golden brown, the meat tender, juicy. The dressing and gravy savory dreams.

"I'm afraid I wasn't cut out for a miner's wife," frigidly.

Mrs. Kraus agreed. "But the one sure way to keep your man always in the mine is to let your ears do it."

"Don't mind her," Reuben said when they returned to their interrupted meal. "This turkey is worth a few insults."

Judith tried valiantly to capture the holiday spirit, so did Reuben. They tried too hard. Perhaps that was why it eluded them.

They had so pitifully little in common. Judith tried to take an interest in Reuben's work, but she hated the mine, so did Reuben. He would have talked of their days in Maryland, but the subject always led to regrets and hurt feelings, so they spoke brightly of impersonations.

"I had a letter from Jim," Reuben remembered suddenly and felt his pockets. "Left it in my other coat."

"What did he say?"

"Hugo is fine. Jim has been hunting with him a lot this autumn."

Major Loop Season Will Begin Monday

Senators, Athletics to Meet at Washington
DIMAG HOLDS OUT
Champion New York Yankees Entertain Bees

BY GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK (AP)—The clients having been worked into a suitable lethargy by as fancy a lot of spring ballyhoo as Connie Mack, the oldest inhabitant, ever saw, the 1938 big league baseball campaign at last is on the verge of getting down to business.

It starts with a two-o-sh at Washington on Monday afternoon, when President Franklin D. Roosevelt is scheduled to watch a couple of very long shots, the Washington Senators and Philadelphia Athletics, bang each other about. At the same time, up in Boston, the champion New York Yankees will begin what looks like another grand march, against the Boston Red Sox, weather permitting.

Two Tilt
Only the two tilts are on Monday's program, but on the following day the cannoning will become general on all fronts. The New York Giants, two-time champs in the National league and slim favorites to win again, open against the Boston Bees at the Polo grounds.

As for some seasons past, prospects for a genuine pennant fight between two or more clubs are wrapped up in the National league. In the opinion of a majority of experts, the Giants again will get their toughest competition from the Chicago Cubs, with the St. Louis Cardinals and Pittsburgh Pirates pursuing.

Nothing of the kind is forecast in the American league, where the Yankees are deemed to have such a bulge over their nearest neighbors that only a general falling-apart of the veteran team could deprive them of a third world championship.

Di Maggio Still Out

What's more remarkable about the rush to get on the side of the Bronx members is the fact they will face the Red Sox Monday without their greatest player, Joe DiMaggio, in the lineup. Myril Hoag, who figures to elude close to 50 points under DiMaggio's potential figure, will occupy Giuseppe's centerfield post. Yet the champs, who finished 13 games in front of Detroit last season, appear so powerful otherwise that they drew the votes of 52 out of 60 baseball writers in the Associated Press' annual plebiscite.

DiMaggio's stubborn holdout for $40,000, and Colonel Jake Ruppert's equally hard-headed refusal to offer him more than $25,000, has done much to enliven the training season. A lot of the boys thought they were fooling, but it doesn't look that way now. Starting Monday, Joe will be losing approximately $1,000 each week in salary, and it will take him close to a month to work himself into real playing condition when once he does report.

Hard Blow

Offhand, the second most important occurrence of the conditioning campaign was the broken leg suffered by Luke Appling, shortstop and mainspring of the Chicago White Sox, who finished third in the American league last year. It was a hard blow to Manager Jimmy Dykes. With Appling certain to be out of the month of the campaign, the Sox might have difficulty clinging to the first division.

The Cleveland Indians, with a scrapping new manager in Oscar Vitt, look like the best "dark horse" in either league. Their only apparent weakness is at second base. Detroit, the popular choice to chase the Yankees home, has a similar gap at third base, and the Red Sox are short pitchers.

The Cincinnati Reds, with wise old Bill McKechnie calling the signals, are likely to be the surprise package of the National league and should climb out of the cellar up to fifth or sixth place.

ABC Scoring Peak Has Been Reached

Standings Remain Unchanged Last Two Days at Chicago

Chicago (AP)—The scoring peak of the 38th annual American Bowling Congress appears definitely to have been passed. For two days now a change has been made in the top ten in the standings.

The 48-day stand will end Tuesday evening. Only seven more teams of 5-man teams remain to make the 40-A. B. C. drives. Here and there on the list of 280 is a "name" team, but so far in the 1938 congress, "name" teams have accomplished little.

Of the first five in the standings, only the leading Birk Brothers Bowlers had a national reputation before the firing started.

No single defending champion, team or individual, has threatened the top figures.

In the team events last night, the Falls City Hi-Bru, five from Indianapolis which captured the title two years ago with a 3,083 count, moved only 2,892 maples off the drives this time. Nevertheless their total was second high of the low scoring evening. Best count was 2,910 by the Silver Seal Sodas of St. Louis.

Standings Remain Same in Wisconsin Bowling Tourney

Keglers Will Touch Leaders in Competition Last Night

NEENAH-MENASHA—Keglers rolling in the thirty-sixth annual state bowling tournament last night had little luck in hitting the pocket, for not one score posted had effect upon the standings of the ten leaders in the various divisions.

Alleys in both cities were mostly dominated by Neenah bowlers with keggers from Menasha, Clintonville, Milwaukee and Wauwatosa also drilling the maples.

The Menasha No. 3 team turned in the top score in the booster shift, netting a 2,246 on lines of 697, 796 and 753, while the Blifferts, Wauwatosa, rolled high in the 975 division with a total of 2,789 on games of 1,015, 855 and 919. Walter Pump's Tavern, Milwaukee, took the honor count in the 875 division with a score of 2,725 on lines of 896, 913 and 913.

Top Score

Drilling games of 255, 184 and 156 for a count of 595, H. Ellis, Neenah, rolled the top score in the 175 singles, while O. Hagen scored a 589 on games of 190, 197 and 202.

In the 350 doubles, P. Peeters-H. Ellis, Neenah, counted a 1,030 for best total. They collected games of 366, 328 and 336. J. Pinkerton-D. Bendt, Menasha, recorded a 1,004 total on lines of 204, 358 and 352.

Ten teams from the Premier Pabst league, Milwaukee, will headline tonight's bowling schedule when there will be five shifts of team competition and seven of doubles and singles. Sunday there will be seven shifts of team play, three of which will be Neenah-Menasha boosters, while there will be seven shifts of doubles and singles.

Sports Mirror

Today a Year Ago—Joe DiMaggio, New York Yankees star outfielder, operated on for removal of tonsils and adenoids.

Three Years Ago—Despite cold weather, six major league openers drew 103,687; Babe Ruth hit homer against Carl Hubbell with one on and accounted for all 4 runs as Braves beat Giants, 4-2.

Five Years Ago—Charley Devens, former Harvard star now with Newark, pitched one-hit game against Toronto but lost, 2-1.

Provide for Heavy Western Entry in Open Golf Meet

Designate Seven Courses in Far West for Sectional Trials

NEW YORK (AP)—The United States Golf association, having sent its 1938 open championship farther west than ever before, has made adequate provision for the expected heavy entry from the western states.

The list of 31 points where 36-hole sectional qualifying rounds will be played, May 31 includes seven in the far west. They are Denver, where the championship proper will be held at the Cherry Hills, club June 9-11; Salt Lake City, Portland, Ore., Seattle, Wash.,

San Francisco, Los Angeles and Phoenix, Ariz.

Phoenix appears on the sectional list for the first time since this form of qualifying was introduced with two districts in 1924; San Francisco returns after having been omitted last year, and the Pacific northwest draws two places instead of the customary one.

The sectional contenders will be battling for at least 140, and possibly a few more, places in the championship field of 170. Ordinarily the 31 low scorers and ties from last year's tourney, as well as the home club pro, would fill 32 berths, but two members of the former group, amateur champion Johnny Goodman and Charles (Chuck) Kocis of Detroit, will be abroad with the United States Walker cup team at the time of the open.

Heading the list of players exempt from the sectional trials is defending champion Ralph Guldahl. The former Chicagoan, now registered from the Briardburn

Golf club in Madison, N. J., set a tournament record last year at Birmingham, Mich., with a 72-hole score of 221. Sam Snead, then the "rookie" sensation from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., now a seasoned tournament tourer, tied the previous mark in finishing second with 282.

Also exempt are one amateur, Frank Strafaci, and such noted professional stars as Harry Cooper, Ed Dudley, Bobby Cruikshank, Gene Sarazen, Denny Shute, Paul Runyan, Billy Burke, Henry Picard, Jimmy Hines, Byron Nelson, Jimmy Thomson, Johnny Revolta and Ky Laffoon. Sarazen, Burke and Sam Parks, Jr., in addition to Guldahl, are the only former winners who are automatically eligible.

DROPPED AS FARM

Chicago (AP)—The Hot Springs club of the Cotton State league has been dropped as a farm for the Chicago Cubs in keeping with a ruling by baseball commissioner K. M. Landis that no major league club may have interests in more than one team in any minor league.

State Leaguers Gather April 21

Blaeholder Will Hurl Opener for Milwaukee Brews

Governor, Two Mayors Will Launch American Association Season

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Milwaukee Brewers open their American association baseball schedule today at Toledo, with Manager Allan Sothoron nominating his veteran right-hander, George Blaeholder, for pitching duty. The Mudhens were expected to use Bob Harris, young Beaumont (Texas league) graduate.

The Brewers are starting out with five replacement from the club which finished last season. Oscar Grimes, young third baseman from New Orleans, replaces Ken Keltner, graduated to Cleveland. Tommy Irwin, another Pelican product, will be at shortstop in place of Eddie Marshall.

Schulte In Outfield

Joe Becker, down from Cleveland, will be the No. 1 backstop, replacing Bill Brenzel, and the veteran Fred Schulte will be back in the outfield after a long tour of the majors to which he graduated from Milwaukee. He replaces Jeff Heath, now with Cleveland. A rookie, Rush Hankins from Henderson, Tenn., will have one outfield berth unless or until Sothoron gets a veteran for the job.

Holdovers in the starting lineup today will include Ted Gullic, outfielder; Hickey Heath, first baseman, and Lindo Storti, second baseman.

The Brewers remain on the road until April 29.

Columbus, Ohio (AP)—A governor and two mayors will officially launch six of the eight American association clubs on their 36th baseball season today.

Thirty thousand fans were hoping that clear skies would welcome the curtain-raiser at Columbus, Indianapolis and Toledo. Possible showers and cooler weather was the weather bureau's forecast for Ohio.

Gov. Martin L. Davey will unlimber his hurling arm in an attempt to fire a ball across the plate at Columbus to get the stage for hostilities between the Red Birds and the Kansas City Blues.

Mayor Roy Starr will live up to his name by tossing the opening ball at Toledo, where the Mud Hens and the Milwaukee Brewers tangle, and Mayor Walter C. Indianapolis will test his pitching arm before the Indians tackle the Minneapolis Millers.

Predicts Close Race

The St. Paul-Louisville lid-lifter is scheduled for the Kentucky city Sunday.

League President George W. Trautman, predicting another close association pennant chase, will watch the 1937 champion Red Birds.

The Birds, who edged Toledo by a single contest in a photo-finish last fall, face a tough foe in the Blues. Sports writers of the association circuit have picked the New York yankee owned-Kansas city club as the 1938 champions.

Marvin Breuer of the Blues will oppose Columbus' portly Johnny Chambers on the mound. Thirteen thousand fans are expected.

George Blaeholder is being counted on the check the Toledo slugger before an anticipated crowd of 7,000, while Manager Fred Haney of the Mud Hens planned to make a last-minute selection between Paul Trout and Bob Harris for the hurling job.

Tauscher of Minneapolis and Myllykangas of Indianapolis will be on the firing line at Indianapolis.

Race Rules Will Increase Speed

Indianapolis Cars Can Use Any Type, Amount Of Fuel

Indianapolis (AP)—More thrills for the spectators and harder driving for the goggled knights of the roaring road—these will be two results of new rules governing the 500-mile Indianapolis Speedway Race Memorial day, says Harry (Cotton) Henning, veteran builder of racing automobiles.

But, more important in Henning's opinion, the new rules—which remove all fuel restrictions—"will mean everything to the men behind the scenes" of the speed classic.

The new rules provide for unlimited use of any kind of fuel, one or two-man cars, superchargers, lighter cars and smaller motors. A car must qualify at better than 110 miles an hour to be eligible for the big grind. Last year the minimum was 105.

Last year use of only commercial gasoline, available at any filling station, was permitted. There was no limit on quantity, as in 1936 when each driver was allowed only 37½ gallons. Any fuel, in any quantity, may be used this year.

"Few cars will stick to commercial gasoline," Henning explained, "we're after high speed. Most American cars will burn benzol mixed with regular gasoline. The foreign cars will burn alcohol. With the smaller engines this special fuel will permit an increase in compression and boost the horsepower."

Boston—Boston's Bees and Red Sox, who split four games in Florida, resume their rivalry today with Casey Stengel calling upon his ace, Jimmy Ponder, to hurl for the Bees. Foyden, to hurl for the Bees. The Yankees, named Fritz Ostermuller and the youngsters, Dick Mikkiff and Lee Rogers.

Jersey City, N. J.—Herb Barra, outfielder, probably will be the Philadelphia Athletics' teacup on Monday's opener at Washington.

Posting of Franchise Fee Will be Principal Business

KAUKAUNA—Northern State baseball executives are working overtime getting the stage set for the opening games on Sunday, May 8, with Green Bay playing at Clintonville; Kimberly invading Kaukauna; New London going to Manitowoc and Two Rivers traveling to Seymour.

The final pre-season meeting will be held at New London next Thursday night. This is the session at which the $100 guarantee checks must be deposited with Treasurer John Coppes. Final approval will be placed on the revamped bylaws and President Bernard J. Neumann will announce the personnel of his umpiring staff.

The various clubs have been taking advantage of the spring-like weather getting in some practice ticks and all the squads have inter-team practice games carded this weekend.

The amended players' eligibility rule which allows the teams four instead of three outsiders has boomed the players' market as every manager has been gunning around to get the best possible reinforcements for his squad.

Sure To Make Grade
The three newcomers in the circuit, Clintonville, New London and Seymour are rousing up aggregations that should enable to easily make the ground in the "faster" company. The Four-Wheel-Drive squad will pin its pitching hopes on Tommy Tomlin, a speed ball right hander who in 1936 hurled some swell ball games for Green Bay.

W. H. R. R. Seymour manager and G. Polaski who will pilot the club at New London, both have some surprises in store for the Northern State leaguers. Both these cities are "red hot" baseball spots and their fans have swelled the coffers to make sure of winning clubs.

New Faces At Two Rivers
Eddie Raab, the "Two Rivers" captain, expects to have some new faces in his back field. Candidates for the Manitowoc Shipbuilders have been working indoors for several weeks and Manager Al Borths likes the way his players are prancing around.

Jack Lamers, Little Chute's star backstop, will probably wear the mask and mitt for Kimberly. Baldy Egger, 1937 champion batsman, will again patrol the initial sack for Kaukauna.

Green Bay has booked an exhibition game Sunday, May 1 with the Fargo Moorhead Twins of the Northern league who will stop off several days at the "Bay" before going to Wausau where they open the season on Thursday, May 5.

Training Camp Briefs

CLEVELAND—There won't be another pitching duel between Bob Feller, the Indians' ace, and Carl Hubbell of the New York Giants this spring. Manager Oscar Vitt shifted his plans and scheduled Feller to pitch against the homecoming team today against Hal Schumacher, while Hubbell will hurl tomorrow.

Newark, N. J.—George Scharein, the Phillies' star shortstop, may be out of the opening game against Brooklyn Tuesday with a charley horse.

Dayton, O.—Right-handed Tommy Bridges now is slated to pitch the Detroit Tigers' opener against the White Sox at Chicago. George Gill had been the nominee until he let the Cincinnati Reds get off to a 13-run lead Thursday.

Chicago—The Chicago Cubs' invalids are beginning to come around although Manager Charlie Grimm indicated today he won't start either Augie Galan or Phil Cavarretta in Tuesday's opener. Galan doffed his sun glasses yesterday for the first time since undergoing an operation in Los Angeles. X-rays disclosed Cavarretta's wrist was not fractured.

New York—The New York Yankees' followers have figured out that Joe DiMaggio will be losing approximately $162 a day if he doesn't turn up in time for the opener in Boston Monday. That's how much he'd get for each game on the basis of the $5,000 the Yanks have offered to pay him for the 154-game season.

Dayton, O.—Deacon Bill McKechnie of the Cincinnati Reds has been spotted breaking down and smiling for an occasional fleeting moment. That's because Johnny Vander Meer, who usually needs an ally to find the plate, pitched five innings yesterday with no walks and only one hit batsman.

Boston—Boston's Bees and Red Sox, who split four games in Florida, resume their rivalry today with Casey Stengel calling upon his ace, Jimmy Ponder, to hurl for the Bees. Foyden, to hurl for the Bees. The Yankees, named Fritz Ostermuller and the youngsters, Dick Mikkiff and Lee Rogers.

Jersey City, N. J.—Herb Barra, outfielder, probably will be the Philadelphia Athletics' teacup on Monday's opener at Washington.

PLAYS HOOKEY WHEN WHITE SOX ARE IN TOWN
Although June Travis is a star of the films, she's also the daughter of Harry Grabner, vice president and general manager of the Chicago White Sox. And when the White Sox were in Los Angeles June had to play hookey from the studio to see her old friends, including Ted Lyons, veteran pitcher.

Someone's Going to Win a $25 Fly Rod At Post Crescent's Fishermen's Party

ON THE morning of May 15

which, as you know, is the opening day of the trout season, there'll be some trout fishermen from around this section who'll be picking his way along the slippery bed of a northern Wisconsin stream thinking nice things about the Appleton Post-Crescent's fishing party.

He'll be the chap who wins the $25 James A. Heddon's Sons fly rod which is another of the many featured prizes of the party scheduled Tuesday, April 26, at Armory G.

The rod is one of the finest pieces of equipment you ever saw. It comes in an aluminum case and consists of three pieces with an extra tip. It is made of selected tempered bamboo and has a formed cork grip. It has a screw locking reel-seat of composition material, nickel silver mountings and gunmetal finish, a genuine agate first guide, tungsten steel intermediate guides and tip-top, serrated ferules, is wound in black with orange trim and has a bag for carrying in the aluminum case.

And speaking of Heddon equipment, the Economy Boys, 135 E. College avenue, are offering two Heddon River Runt lures. One is a spookie flouter and the other a chatter spook. They're both real baits.

Trout Reel, Too
The Economy Boys also are offering a trout reel by Shakespeare. It is strongly and sturdily built and very light. The frame and spool are of non-corroding aluminum alloy. The line can't pile and the whole reel can be taken down in a moment because it has only two parts. The spool staff is of hard bronze and designed for long wear.

George Walter Brewing company, Appleton, has recognized the fact fishermen like a case of beer now and then while on a trip and has accordingly made an offer of six cases. They'll make six prizes so there are six fishing parties that

FURS ALWAYS SAFE IN GEENEN'S 'BANK VAULT'

Here is Geenen's fur vault photographed at its west entrance. Just inside the huge bank vault door can be seen fur coats hung in the individual fur bags so that they are kept separate and can never come in contact with each other. The vault is treated with pure crystal Parachlorobenzene to positively guard all furs against moths and vermin. It boasts an asbestos ceiling and cement walls, and is absolutely light and dust proof. Furs are insured from the time they leave the customer's home until returned next winter.

Geenen's fur vault and fur salon are under the direction of Irving Cohen, fur stylist with more than 21 years experience. Mr. Cohen also supervises the work done in Geenen's efficient, capable fur service and repair department.

Get Peace of Mind With Car Insurance In Strong Concern, 'Employers' Advice

The one way, Employers Mutuals explains, to enjoy complete peace of mind before or after an automobile accident is to have adequate insurance. There is only one way, reminds this insurance company, to recover that part of the cost of automobile insurance which is a reflection of accidents caused by the carelessness of irresponsible drivers. That way is to place your automobile insurance in a strong mutual company which takes only selected risks. This guarantees to policyholders that are accepted, an association with other desirable risks and a share in the profits from resultantly higher earnings.

But why Employers Mutuals, you may ask? In explanation, Employers Mutuals emphasizes that the primary purpose of its automobile policy is protection for the insured's accumulated assets and future happiness against claims for damages arising from automobile accidents causing bodily injuries to others or damage to the property of others, and protection against loss through damage to the insured's automobile.

Through trained, direct, company representatives, operating from completely equipped branch offices, interests of policyholders are given prompt, courteous, and accurate attention, a service which is of great importance. Nationwide attorney service augments its large, direct, office service.

Deal Direct By dealing through direct representatives, through careful selection of businesses, and through accident prevention activity, thereby reducing both loss and expense ratios below average, it has been possible, during the entire life of the company, to affect substantial savings for policyholders in the form of dividend returns. The company is of unquestionable financial standing, maintains fully adequate reserves, receives the highest ratings from recognized authorities, and issues a strictly non-assessable automobile policy. These are gold bond reasons, Employers Mutuals continues, why it is to your advantage to investigate completely the possibilities of its automobile accident insurance policies.

An inquiry with a description of your automobile will bring you complete details without obligating you in any manner. Employers Mutuals maintain all most complete insurance in its offices in the Zuelke Building. A call to R. J. White, telephone 3264, will bring all the information relative to your car and the complete way in which you can be protected while driving.

Oliver?" another foreman's wife invited her cordially. "Why—Judith started to refuse. "I'll pack enough lunch for you," Mrs. Kraus offered, "You won't have to bother about that." "I'll go, of course."

The wooded hollow where the picnic was held was shady. It would have been pleasant had not the smoke and smell of the mine hung over it. The lunch was delicious—homecooked ham, pickles, jellies, cakes and what not. The women talked happily of their homes, their husbands, their children, their future, their past—as happy women.

Warm weather is fur coat storage weather. Heat, stuffy clothes chests and closets not only in themselves wreck havoc on even the most durable of furs, but they breed your fur coat's most insidious and destructive enemy—the moth! Your fur coat is one of your most highly prized possessions and it must be protected. The only safe and sure way to protect your furs is to leave them in the care of an experienced and reliable furrier.

Kriek's Furs, 303 W. College avenue, for many years has been offering expert fur storage service to the public. Their large, modern, refrigerated fur storage vault is one of the finest in the state. Fur coats stored with Kriek's not only receive the invigorating benefits of constant pure, cold, moisture-controlled air, but also the extra protection of gas sterilization. There are no dangers of heat drying out the natural oils in your furs or cracking the pelts. There is also no danger of a moth invasion which leaves your fur coat in shreds.

While in the refrigerated fur storage vault, your coat is protected by insurance against all types of risks such as fire, theft and water damage. You really can't afford to run the risk of storing your fur coat in your own home when Kriek's offer you this complete and reliable fur service at only nominal cost.

Fur storage alone, however, is not the only fur service offered by Kriek's. Your fur coat naturally, en will. They asked Judith questions. "From the South, aren't you?" "From Maryland."

"My—that's a long way." Most of them had been born within a radius of 100 miles of the mine. "Was it a pretty place?" "Pretty?" If only she could have told them of home as it was! But they would have thought she was bragging or lying.

At rare intervals when she stopped pitying herself, Judith thought of Reuben and pitied him too. Poor Reuben—working long hours in this fiendish heat. She remembered the cars he had driven, the yacht he had sailed, the money he had handled, the power, of a sort, he had wielded. Yes, it was hard for Reuben too.

all that it stood for—with a greed that frightened her. Wanted it for them! How safely a little girl could play inside the hedge! What gorgeous dream ships a little boy could launch on the meadow brook at home! Home! The word had taken on its full meaning. (Copyright, 1938)
